Yeah, felt it here, scared the shit out of me, never in my life, has something like that happen.

My location is close to Great Grimsby.

Measured 4.9/5.0 on the Richter Scale and was located just south of Kingston upon Hull.

Measured 10-24km deep, and watching/feeling it was weird...

The Richter scale goes up to 10. And theoretically even higher than that.

Well whatever scale it was on, I didn't like it.

Having your whole house shake and shit, ain't funny.

Richter scale can indeed go past 10, but there has never been an earthquake past a 10. Since 1 through 10 increases exponentially. Anything above 10 would just be merely impossible without it actually effecting the earth as a whole.

Felt it here too, but barely (north east England). I wasn't sure if I was imagining it or not, that's how minor it was here.
