Does anyone know of a website where I can look up what kind of oil and oil filter I can use/put on my car? My car is a 2003 KIA sedona.

You should be able to find the recommended oil in the manual that came with the car. Usually, it'll be sitting in the glovebox, unless you've somehow lost it, in which case I'd go and find it if I were you; you'll definitely want it.

There's a good chance it'll be asking for 5w20, or 5w30; 5w20 should be fine, but check the owners manual just to be sure.

As for a filter, here's one website that shows a bunch.

I'd go with the Bosch one, because it's basic, and they make good stuff. If you don't want to buy online, then head to a place like 'Pep Boys' , but they may only stock one brand.

go here for the oil filters to figure out what you need.

Mobil 1 5-50W synthetic oil use that for better milage. 11.6 mpg My 1950 caddilac will get better milage and it has a 503 ci engine in it.
