Get it through your router once you've connected, it should log it and be in the log files.

If it isn't posted on their home page or in the forums chances are they don't want you to have it.

Just run a little netstats command in command prompt to see what connections are running and determine which is to the Ren server.... kinda of a pain. But i'm sure there is a server viewer somewhere with this information. I thought I saw one a few years ago.
