O.k peeps....here's a quick one!! have been playing for just a few days now but am thoroughly enjoying the game! I am trying to decide as to whether it is better than Half-Life but honestly can't tell! It has plus sides over HL but also falls at certain points. For example, in Half-life, the enemies are VERY clever! In Ren, they are challenging but are they clever??? So, to help me decide which is better, I want to know what parts you feel are the games BEST points and it's Worst points also! For me, the best points are the vehicles, the idea of the officers as kinda 'spawn' links and the Nuclear/Ion cannon beacons...! The downers for me are the AI scriptings, loading times and lack of an on-screen map! So, I know it's not a strategic post, but heck, I feel the lack of AI signifies a strategic point huh?!

I have seen gamers asking about game cheats, if there is or will be. Of course many gamers do not use them. I think that is great. Then again there is that gamer who has problems playing and gets very upset, slams the mouse, hits the key board. If a cheat helps this gamer enjoy the game then great, use it and enjoy. All you gamers who feel that this is wrong, keep it to yourself. Lets help those by supporting them not putting them down. This only applies to the single player game and cheats should never be used in multiplayer.

In reply to Andee54, I agree completely!! I have played loads of games which I have wished I had cheats for as they were so darned frustrating!! I played through Baldurs Gate I/II without cheats and then again with...and in all honesty enjoyed it just as much the second time as I didn't have to worry so much about money etc and just concentrated on the most important aspect of the game...FUN! Many FPSs' have a limit on ammo you can find, this game being one of them, and I for one sometimes wish I had a little more sniper ammo (for instance) and I consider myself a darned good shot! So for those out there who maybe are new to FPSs' or just need a little more firepower/health, I think anyone who has access to cheats for the single player mode should stop *****in' and just help those people out. After all, isn't this a Tactics & strategy forum or a kiddies school playground? We're not here to call names but to share info and help those who are having problems!!

This may be true. The main point I wish to make is, Please don't put down those who need help and enjoy gaming. It may be the only release in lifes' preasures they have. I believe most games are sold to the single player type.

the thing about single player cheats is that they are already coded into the game so a trainer maker could use that same code to turn it into an online trainer

Well I don't care where he got the info from, I was just commenting on what Devinoch said about them being removed. There are eastereggs, but they are not allowed in the ladder games, probably will be in non-laddered for entertainment sake, and even then we'd have to wait for WW to release them, but I believe I read somewhere that they were going to be released eventually.

I just hope it doesn't get as bad as in Counter-Strike. When servers wanted to scan my entire drive before I could join the games was when I uninstalled it. That killed it for me.

Everyone who is checking this post regularly.....here's a little info for you...I have checked a previous cheat message and it said the cheats were hidden C:\Westwood\Renegade\Data and open 'always.dat' with notepad. Many people have questioned this as the file is 500Mb+ so doesn't open. You CAN open the 'always.dbs' with notepad and if you 'Edit>Find for 'cheats' you'll find all kinds of cheats listed there (apparently there is a 'cheats' option under 'controls' on the options menu!). I cannot get them to work, but you guys can try!!

Guess we can live and hope huh?You'd think they'd let us know what they are so it'd prevent all the 'third-party' hackers ripping their programmes apart to find them!! know of a number of people who do this sort of thing and when done cracking the pwogrammes, make f****ng copies of the games to sell to others for a couple of quid!People like that may be kewl for finding cheats, but make the games developers bump-up prices due to all the pirated games!

Well guys, it seems that there are no cheats. All the ones who say they have them, but will not give them out, really don't. They just want you to feel small compared to their supposed great mental power. Wouldn't it make sence if they were possible that WW would want you to use them if you wanted too. So don't let the "would be greats" feel great. Why even have a forum if you dont help others.
