Is it just me or are some drivers/gunners not using BOTH weapons in the Mammoth tanks?I sometimes see only the primary gun firing and not the secondary.anyone else see this?

The secondary gun in the mammoth is only good against infantry and at close range.But the primary gun destroys tanks with better ease than the secondary,its not bad against infantry(just less splash damage than secondary),it got much better range than the secondary,want more?

I think it's that the turret has longer range and the secondary does more damage but has shorter range.It tested this on a enemy Harv and the secondary killed it much faster.

missiles do more damage, just like real missiles, but the shells do have some splash damage, i have killed a load of black hand with just shells
