i have been forcerg'ed on a server i always go to. cant run renegade unless i use resurrection, cant use renguard because resurrection will not load it when starting the game...

how can i solve this.

any help is appreciated.

i contacted the creator of resurrection, and he told me that renguard is going to be shut down soon and replaced by the new patch. and that resurrection is no longer compatible with renguard.

so am i left with only one choice, and that is to change my nick and hide until the new all inclusive patch comes out?

Go to the server's forum and request an !unforcerg ? For the rest: you summed it up nicely.

i cant as it was done by one of the admins, and requesting to be unforcerg'ed will attract even more attention to this case... like i dont want him to ban me for forcerg evasion... then im really fucked cause then i just cant play on the server. and again im not saying the name of it as i dont want this to get back to him.

Hmm. If the server will not pay attention to what seems a fair case for un-forceRG'ing then I have my doubts over the quality of moderation. Not trying to start a community fight or whatever, but...

Was it unrules by any chance?

no, i have not been on anything that belongs to UN rules in years... and its not important where this was. i wasnt cheating or anything like that, just killed the wrong person too many times so he was pissed off.

anyways, i have reinstalled ren and its still not working properly.

i can run game2.exe but not game.exe.

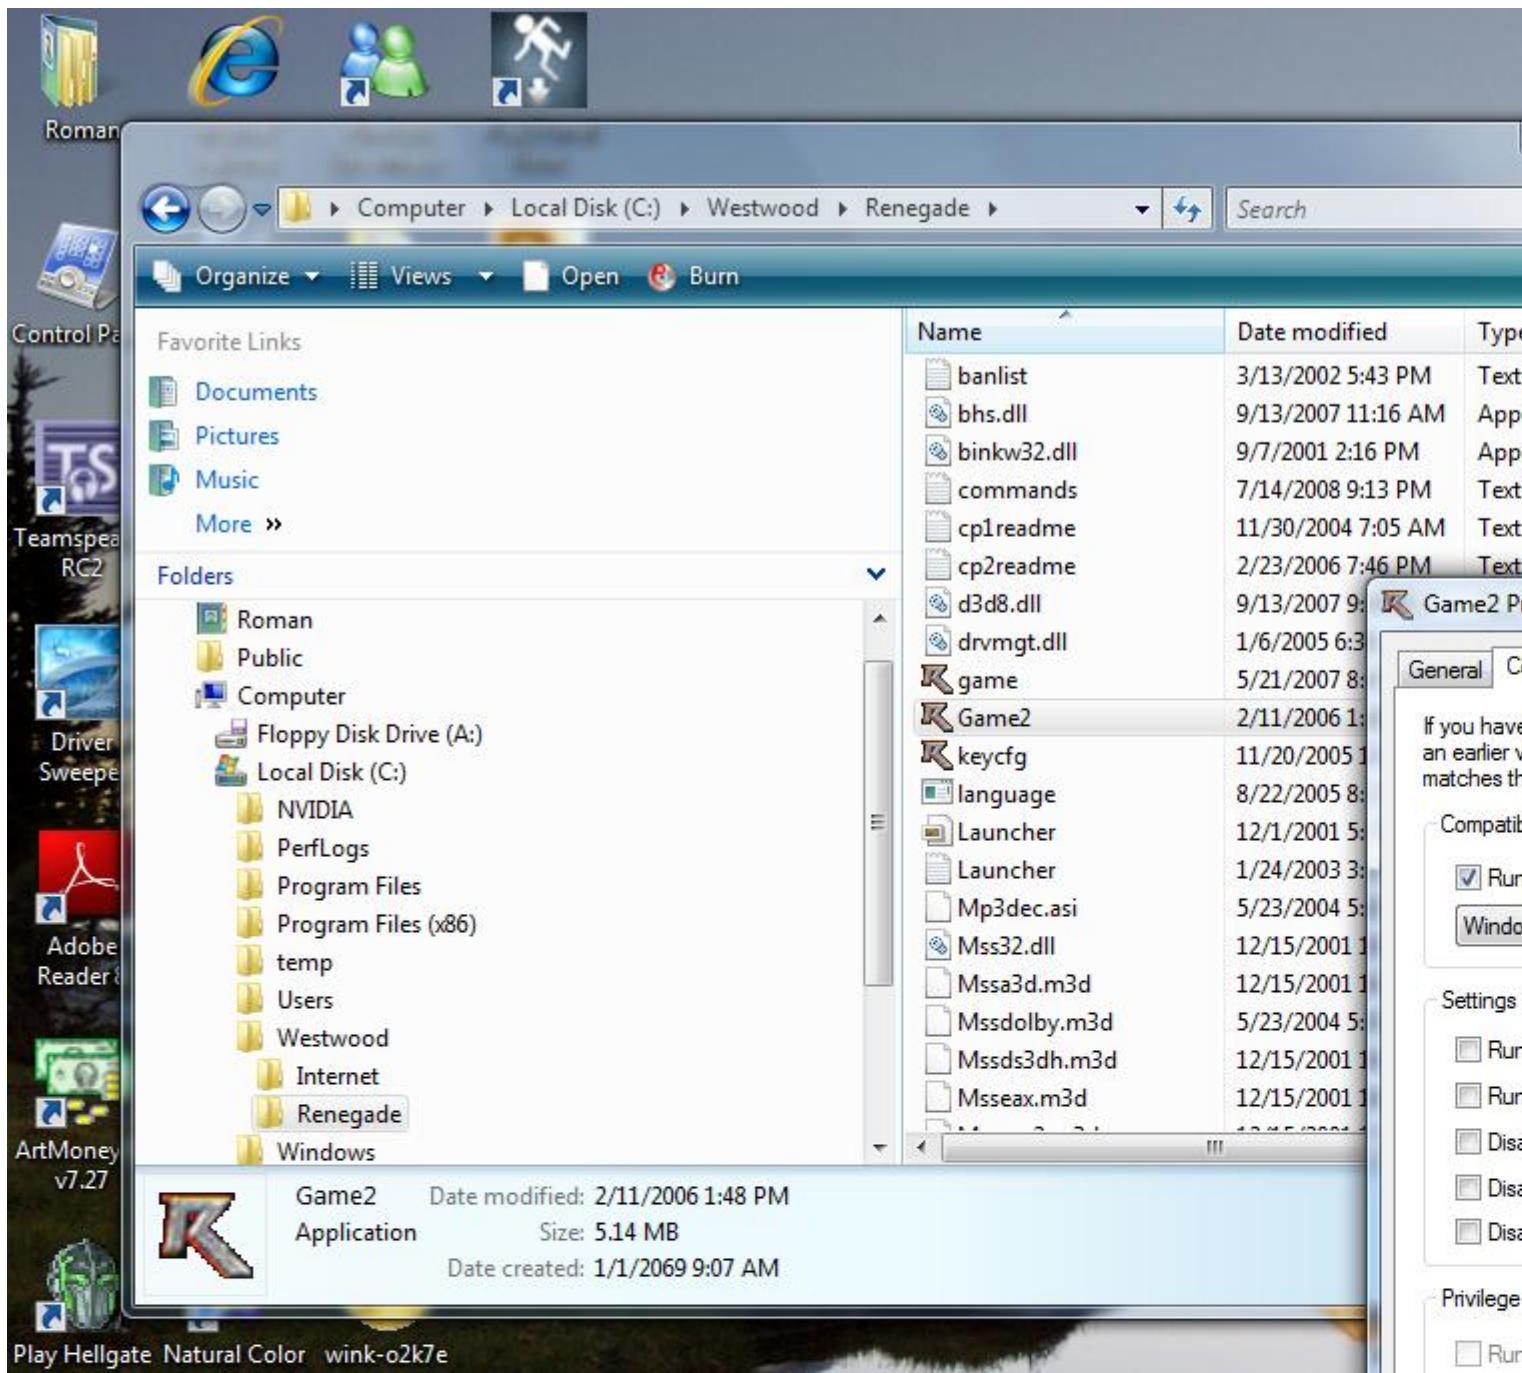

i cant change the properties on them to "run as administrator", which was told is critical component to make them work in vista.

now im asking for help, as i cannot figure out how to change it. the option is greyed out, but i am the admin on this computer.

here are some screen shots to explain the situation.

If you right click it you should see "Run as administrator" as the third option.

That option should be available if not you are probably not on a admin account.

lmao, i never seen that before... will check it out once i get home.

i thought the only way to do it was the way i had in the screen shot.

tbh if I got forcerg/banned/kicked for killing the admin too many times I wouldn't bother going back, this just shows a level of moderation that is seriously lacking... Are you sure it wasn't UNrules?

no like i said i have not been on their servers/forums for years now. i am banned from there though lol but its a long story. in short i said that mods sit in irc all day and only come into the server when the good players are gone. it was said as a joke, and i even stated that i was joking, but someone was on their period and said im banned for ever for it. lol never bothered going there ever since.

but alas, the problem has been solved THANK YOU {SB}Lone0001!!!!

i did just that and it worked!

now the thing i dont get is why could i not do it by going into properties? but thats just microsoft, same option two different menus, one works one doesnt...

so all is well now and im spreading the word to all that i said should use resurrection, if this works then why bother with resurrection?

no offense Yrr but if that is all i had to do all along, why would i stick with resurrection?

Resurrection fixes a few and requires the person to be running RR to get them, also RG is the thing that really isn't needed since TT isn't far away and RG has some annoying bugs which cause people's renegade to crash.

About the Vista(which sucks) thing I remember having that option in properties when I first got my Vista(did I mention it sucks?) laptop but it disappeared I'm guessing after a windows update im not that annoyed with vista nymore, only thing that still bugs me is that there is no driver for my video card that has absolutely no issues.

but im not sure who to blame for that, nvidia or vista.

i got evga 8800gt superclocked.

but thats a conversation for another day.

and i know its retarded to force people nowdays but some people that dont know any better and are sore losers do it still
