Alright well I got two problems... When I shut off my computer, it reboots and starts up again. I don't know if it's the computer or windows. The second one is I have to disk drives. And the top one works fine, and the bottom one reads perfectly too. But the bottom one wont open up and now my renegade cd has been stuck in there for about 3 months. I can't get it to open and I've asked some people and they said maybe I put the disk in wrong but i put it in perfectly fine. Btw, for my first problem if you need to know I run windows xp. never had a problem till now. And its pissing me off. So if you guys can help... I'd love your time

1. did you do a virus scan and anti spyware scan?
 2. normally there's a very small reset button on which you can push with a needle or something like that to force it to open up.

Yes i do run anti-virus.
And cd drive taken care of.
P.S. i moved and have been using laptop and havent used comp in about two months and it started doing this two weeks ago.

It's windows, you need to get used to mysteriously changing settings.
