Hello guys,

I have a problem with logging in by multi player.

I filled in my nick but accidentally the wrong password.

Now I also selected " Always login with this account"

Every time I want to login I got the message wrong password.

I deleted the account by my information but still it appears with my login and wrong password. I also FULLY reinstalled the game 3 times already but it wont work.

Were can I change my login and pass?

Please help

I already did this before but I reseted my password but I can't change the password because I don't get a login screen when I select advanced game listings.

It automatically logs in with my old password and gives the error wrong password.

At the screen with "advanced game listings" on it, hover your mouse to the left and a bar will pop out. Click "my information" on it and unselect "always login with this account".

I also did that..... but still the nickname appears when I press advanced game listings. I get NO login screen it just logs in with the nick and the previous password I filled in.

I also deleted the account but when I press advanced game listings it still pick the nick and the wrong password that I deleted earlier. In stead of giving me a fresh login screen.

When it shows the login and pass popup, do "delete account". If this doesn't give you a blank password field, then you may be running Ren on Vista without admin mode. Do it again, running Ren in admin mode then.
