IF we haven't finished it in 3008, then you can ask about the release data again.

Well, they've been working on it for awhile now (since January?), but lets not rush them.

They have been working on it for a while but a lot of new features have also been proposed in this forum. It'll be released when done, I personally hope it could be beta tested this year but I'm not part of the team, so I'm not basing this on any facts.

BlueThen: I was just shooting that out there...I don't care to rush anyone as I don't really care when it is released. I just hope it doesn't become some archive project on SourceForge? I will fully support this anti-cheat software when it is released just like RG (because i'll have to lol).

Any who...exciting to see this thing roll out. Good work on it guys. Good-Job...Good-Job!

exactly, make 2 patches. one for the major stuff like bluescreen anti-cheat and one for the other stuff like floating agt cracks, complex circles, etc.
