If you go into renegade and press the register button or another you get linked to a dead page. Is it possible to change the location it links to?? I thought it is hard coded in game.exe but is this right???

Maybe they could edit it to how to create a nickname entry at renegadewiki

I actually want to know it for my own mod: Tiberium Redux.

I wanted to link to a page where you register a account on the Tiberium Redux/Omarserv forum.

Renegade crashes each time I (accidently) click on one of these pages and it tries to open a window with the pre-configured website. I think scripts 3.x causes this.

I get this also. Vista, Scripts 3.4.4 and RR.

Edit - TYVM Saberhawk / Jonwil / Whoever wrote that fix

You have to put comment tags saying the site is an official west wood site at the top of the document. It was mentioned in the TT forums.

ok i found it: <!-- Certified Westwood Studios -->

Thx but are the dimensions i found right??? 800*560??
If i make a webpage a user won't have to scroll if this is right

It's probably 560 in height, because don't forget it has the Renegade navigation thingymajigs on the bottom which take up ~40 pixels.
