yeah my questions seemed to disappear.

and i want to start making a mod but have no idea where to start.

have tried doing searches but:

i dont know how to use the commando level editor which is what i believe i need to start with.

i want to edit a character for multiplayer practice.

what files from renegade do i edit then?

Renegade's files should be loaded into LE by default. To edit stuff, just go to the presets tab, then find what you want. Stuff is somewhat oddly named, but make sense at the same time. Soldiers are found under objects>Soldier or the like, if I recall.

Just search around until you find stuff. The best way to find out is to just mess with stuff. Note that it won't fuck up your Renegade.

To actually export your mod (To show up in multiplayer LAN list) as a .pkg (Extra steps need to be taken for .mix), just press the export option.

I reccomend going to renhelp.net. Lots of good tutorials there.

i see.

does it matter which directory it is installed into?

currently when i load up i get a lot of comments and some tga's not found.

and trying to edit makes nothing happen

Ah, yeah, you'll need to try and direct LE to your Renegade folder, then. I forgot how to do this, but renhelp can help you with this.
