What would be cool is if you can make your own list of chat words to block.

So there is a list and you put in every word you don't want to see and when it comes up in game it either does "$@#%!" or "**."

i think an "optional" box to check if u want the chat block to work will be great and make it so you can enter your own words to block out in an ini file so you can type your own words that people spell different like mean mean black person and such Renegade was rated T for Teen, not Y for Young. Even though cussing probably wasn't intended, it wasn't regarded either.

"Rating may change during online gameplay."

It's up to the server owners to run a chat filter. I believe Adad released a tool that allows you to block messages containing inappropriate language defined in the configuration.

Oh, and by the way:

Quote:will der be a chat filter installed cause im black and hate racists so i think it should like auto ban for when a white person uses the n word

It's a double edged sword. The 'N Word' is just as derogatory when an African-American uses it. To be honest, when people try to use their race as an excuse to be racist, it pisses the crap out of me.

Our "swear bot" works very well (BIG THX to danpaul). It replaces unwanted words or simply blocks the entire msg. Best of it: it gives warnings and with the 3rd one the player gets automatically kicked. The mods can keep on gaming while the bot gets rid of those who can't behave Swear filters are pointless. Westwood gave you the option of filtering swearing from the chat messages. Go into your options and disable it client side. Otherwise deal with it, that's what I got to say for it.

Swear filters are indeed pointless if someone wants to hurt someone / be a racist then they will do it anyways.

Kinda missed my point. As mod on a server with a strict "no swearing" policy you have to stop gaming everytime someone starts swearing and explaining that it isnt allowed. If he keeps on you have to quit gaming again to warn him. This goes on untill you have to kick him for disrespecting the server rules.

This. I hate chat filters of any kind so much, they just piss you off and cause problems in communication. Especially for me, considering there are times when half of the sentence is structured around a few curse words.

Rocko has had a long ban period (one month, I think) before and though what he posts tends to not make any sens at all, it's not really directly against forum rules.

I haven't really noticed Anthrax disbehaving, but feel free to use the "report" function if he does, like others have done for sadukar multiple times before.

For me swearing is usually not a problem. You can't insult me with words or to say it a other way noone ever managed it.

The only problem for me is the useless spam afterwards:

Person A: Fuck you!

Person B: No fuck you!

All chat filters do is piss people off and make them waist time trying to find ways to A. Type the words so they get past the filter or B. They stand around waisting time to type the same thing without swear/racial statements in a way that the statement is equally insulting. For a simple wordlist with warn/kick/ban option, use the Nightregulator. It has this built-in ever since it was born.

What's really innovative: Replacing bad words on-the-fly with &%$"&%“š or something similar. Like in the comics I read in my childhood.
