I'd rather use a spoon than a knife. Other than that, no one knows. There is only speculation as to when this will be released.

Because it is slower and more painful than a knife. Also knife wound is clean and more easily repaired. Try repairing a wound created by a spoon, you have this ragged bruised mess of flesh. Sure a knife with a vert slice is unstoppable but I defer to the pain advantage of the spoon.

Agreed, Making this game more playable (stability and LAG) should be the primary focus. Everything else comes later.

At start just charge toward the harvester and fire like crazy. You will not do much damage but it will give you like $100 more than others on your side. If you are Nod combine with other flame trrowe to burn the harvester or GDI use the Grenader to do lots of damage. Those two can kill harvester quickly and will give your side $300 advantage if your harvester does not get blown up.

Get some teamwork going on and get your teammates to be grenadiers and sydneyes... combination of at least 4 of them is good to kill a harvester.

Only type of lag that annoys me is the sliding and teleporting... besides tha ti think the netcode is very good.Orcas would be cool... But what will we use to kill them if they move so fast? cept ions..

Also, on maps without base defenses, try to sneak into the enemy base with a small squad of men including one engi. If they dont notive you, then sneak into a building and drop your c4 on it. This gives you many points and puts your opponents at a serious disadvantage early in the match. Even if you don't blow it up, u will still get many points and credits for the damage.

From what I've heard the aircraft have been released for those of us who volunteered for the Beta Testing by WS-Devinoch.The official aircraft patch for the rest of us (including me ) is yet to be announced from Westwood. I think they're gonna do a majority vote for the Beta testers (bad idea) so the Beta testers are gonna decide whether or not to approve the patch.If they don't go after them with that Spoon mentioned a bit earlier on in this post quote:the betas dont even have it yet... this whole "when's the aircraft coming out" question(are they g@y or what?..lol. j/k) makes me wonder how game development actually works. we know there WILL be aircraft, and i assume that ww has the basic stats for them. my question is, if they haven't released them, where are they? is there an in-house team testing them for gameplay/balance/bug issues first? then when they're satisfied and all known issues have been dealt with, ww turns them over to the betas for more testing?i'm just curious. if anyone has knowledge of how it works before release, please enlighten me.. thanks..

quote: A leprechaun tells me to burn things!!! Is that from the Simpsons?Anywho, don't save to much money. Buy a buggy and shooth people down. That way, you'll achieve much money faster than the savers who sit on theyr money. But you do know how to drive then off course. You also need low lag online, since my laggy 56K drags my vehicles into walls etc
