I have yet to run across one. I would love to have one that looked like one of these or

Anybody bored enough? Or know of a already existing model?

I don't know anything about modeling... so I am assuming 4,000 polys makes it harder and less likely?

The more poly's, the harder it gets for the game to render it. If the model had tons of poly's it could lag Renegade. But I don't know how many that would take.

I wouldnt go over 5000 polys max for a gunmodel prefb around 2500.

So is anyone willing to put this together? Not trying to be pushy, just want to know if I should search for something else.

.max is 3ds max..... it's just that files from a newer version of 3ds max won't open in any older version of 3ds max. I don't see why they couldn't include an option to save it in the format for an older version of 3ds max.....
