hmm, i think i will use the samus PT icon for the APC, at least until a samus 3D model is found, a any format. I will release the metriod APC v2 soon, minor modifications needed first.

EDIT: I have now 2 ZIP files with seperate samus 3D files inside them, idk which one is better, so could someone BONE this samous character for... prototype suit sydney. plz?

Is there any actual texture for this model? If not, I would say applying a reflective effect to it would make the model look a lot better.

3 things to point out:

1: there is no skin out there

2: The visor is actually green, not blue

3: The arms really are supposed to be that big, not as small as the one you made.

Three things to point out:

1. I'm amazed that somebody actually boned that character for you.

2. When someone does do work that you have requested, the least you could do is thank them.

3. You'll be lucky if anyone wants to help you with your shitty attitude.

1: I unwrapped the model, so it has now a skin (texture)

2: I don't know what the hell a visor is, but it can be changed within the skin i guess

3: Is possible if you want to use a fucked up bugged character. These big arms aren't supported by the skeleton which renegade uses, so forget about it.

So I am going to create a basic skin for it, then you guys can make it look better. I'll post the pack in here within an hour or 2 i think.

Well i tried making texture for it but it looks like shit. Please try finishing it yourself.

Files in this pack are

- Gmax scene
- W3dfile as replacement for GDI Pic
- 3 TGA (texture) files

1 - Samous_Basic_Texture

Here you can see the lines used for the model, follow these lines to make a texture on.

and the 2 others are the ones i made real fast and rough :S 1 for the head and 1 for the rest of the body.

WELL GOOD LUCK WITH IT.

I'm tempted to model some Metroid style blocks (like from Super Metroid) and make levels out of that =]

How difficult would it be to make elevators or doors? Metroid-style doors and elevators would be freaking SWEET in my opinion!

I might experiment for the fun of it. Anything resulting from it will look like crap but who knows?

Anyone? If it isn't too hard I might try, not sure how to animate doors though.

doors that only open when you shoot them? would be cool, but I think that that would require scripting

Well doors and elevators are not hard. Infact they are pretty easy. There are two tutorials for them on renhelp. Basically for a standard door you will only animate the beginning frame and the end frame. (Dont use 100 frames for a door!! Lauebi uses like 100 frames for a door which is wastage and the door will move very slow)

If you need help just call. I have a near perfect working vehicle elevator. So some standard doors and elevators wont hurt

yes, reaver is right! it is quite easy to create doors. b 30 frames is good enough indeed, and now i got to chill out. otherwise i will puke again

LOL I did make it 100 before reading this and thinking 'this is ridiculously slow'. It's also too big, lol.

I made a quicky door (same one I mentioned above, still slow, I'll fix) that I will improve soon. I'm not sure I could make a metroid style level but I did the door because the idea was cool

Like I said I will improve it.

Shooting it would be cool but I stuck with a regular door.

Wow, that's pretty good!... though the connection to Metroid eludes me... I guess because you used MC for Samus and Elites for Pirates. I wish I knew how to do some of that stuff.

Actually, that map pretty much has nothing to do with Metroid. It was a really early test I made. Glad you enjoyed it though.

All mine did was a message saying "cannot something-or-other CreateObjectRightHook" or something strange like that, yet it worked.

Also I'm experimenting with Renegade weapons, making beam-type stuff for it. After that, the level itself will be boring but the characters might be fun enough for a LAN match.

TIP: have the weapons fire like normal amo (more like the tib autorifle), and edit the fire effect to a sphere. Something like that could be helpfull to making metriod guns.
