Wouldn't it be better to request some sub forums here? Why do you need a second community for a few unfit questions...

BTW, it's hard for people to take you seriously if you don't have a domain name. Makes it look like you aren't very dedicated to this site.

Honestly I see no point to another forum. Maybe I just missed your pitch.

We might have no domain name but the forum is really nice.

Really? I can never tell which one is him and which is his father, apparently they both play with similar nicknames. I think I've banned both of them for similar reasons though.

Also TANKY if you left here and never came back and frequented that forum over there, I'm sure we'd be able to live without you, really it's a win-win situation..

you believe that adding another server to a list with 50%+ empty servers will keep the game alive?

May I ask how you think this is going to help us?

I must be wrong as I always thought we have to provide 1 page on the server list of decent servers instead of 3 pages with half empty and most others with 2 players in it.

I wish you good luck but I honestly doubt you'll last long. We have the mod forum here which is sufficient for most stuff. If wanted, I could ask Crimson to make a "mod release forum", where only released things could be posted.

I don't see what's special about your forums, BTW. It's a standard skin on a standard free forum package on a non-dedicated domain name :S.

It would probably do everyone much good to keep the community united at one place and I suggest that place would be right here, where it has been for all these years.

You know it would be awesome if you could ask Crimson to make a Mod Release Forum. You are probably right that it's best to keep the community on 1 place, but we'll see what's going to happen in the future.

That a great idea! a mod subforum where people can release their work and be commented on. If this becomes reality, there will also be a credible record of people's work so it's not all over the place.

Also it will be much more easier for new peoples to find skins and such as most will come to renegadeforums.com.

lol starbuzz.

There already is a mod forum and people already release tons of shit there. I don't see why an entirely new website just for that would be better than what we already have, considering it takes like 3 seconds to read the topic titles and determine what is spam, what is someone questioning for help and what is a release.

It's all gets easily lost and no one like to scroll through a subforum where a lot of other things/threads are discussed too. With descriptive topic title (of skin of whatever) it be much easier to find what you looking for.

let's not forget the busted forum search system lolol

You guys can do whatever you want, but I'm just saying, most people here are okay with what we've got. I agree some sort of release list would be handy on the forums, but it doesn't require a new site to make things more manageable.

Hey Goztow, what about letting somebody with time/drive make a sticky with a list of downloads from the Mod forum? Have a mod keep that updated, or something. I doubt anybody would have the time to do that though. Alternative is maybe just recommending/requiring people to put [RELEASE] in a topic title?

I counted all the sections people could post in on exofire, including the subforums. I counted about 36. 20 forums and 16 subforums. THERE ARE ONLY 37 MEMBERS! You can't honestly expect 37 members to be able to fill up 36 forums and subforums. They'd almost have to do it like it's a responsibility.

I also noticed how MOST of these forum descriptions start with a question, and I somehow doubt you guys even know some of this stuff.

Quote:

Phpbb3

Need Phpbb? Need Help With it? Need Themes? Come Here

Quote:Web

Need Help with Websites? Cannot Figure Something Out? Come Here

Seriously! Do you guys even know PHP or ever even had REAL experience with phpbb3 (not counting the probably 30 minutes spent in the admin control panel)? I can't find myself believing so, because you're using some kind of free forum hosting website.

And I can probably point out about a dozen or so forums that'll almost ALWAYS be empty, if you don't count the one or two pointless announcements one of the many admins and founders would make.

The clan ally forums for example, why make a separate section for EVERY clan ally you get?

They have absolutely have no reason to be posting in there because they already have their own forums.

And the moderators! There's 4 different founders and who knows how many moderators and other administrators there are. There's too many. You shouldn't even need 2 moderators to manage a forum that small. It's unnecessary and making every other person who comes along a mod is not a good idea. Even if you know them "a little bit," it's unnecessary.

This forum has been made by freakin 9 year olds! Good god, the first forum on there is misspelled! "Announcments"? That's not right. You'd think one of the 4 founders and many moderators would've noticed by now?

The majority of the mods, skins, and other stuff on their weren't even made by the person who's publishing them on your website. Why would I want to register at a website who's material is unoriginal and I could get at jelly?

This forum really needs to be scrapped, and start over if you have any hope of starting an actual successful community. You guys need to be smarter when it comes to deciding staff. The majority of your staff is under 13 years old, and as I try to refrain from discriminating people age-wise, but your staff needs ACTUAL experience making a forum.

The more sections a forum has, the WORSE it gets! Try and keep as few possible forum sections as possible, so that they get filled up quickly and when one gets too full, split it into different sections later on. TRY and preserve some professionalism in your community. Seriously, I pointed out earlier that the forum description of every forum on there starts with a question, and they all end with "COME HERE" or "POST HERE" Is this some kind of "GET RICH QUICK" scam, or a community?

Don't get me wrong, Di3HardNL. Your modifications are really great. But this definitely isn't how great communities are started out.

There's my rant for the day.

Greetings,

*SuperGike*

You are totally right, SuperGike.

The stupid Picture on top was the total death sentence for me.

But I deleted it again.- Waste of Time!

I think it was iAmHeyi who placed the picture there - The Latest Entry after I logged in was from him, he cleared the Admin Logs.

After this i have never seen him again! He was the "Main" Founder.

But it was so close that it ends in a disaster, after i logged in the first time i thought that it cant be true, a few users and that much Topics/Subtopics... Everyone is Mod/Admin...

Then my second Login - the strange Pic.
