I googled some of the renegade programmers, and found this:

Looks to me like the two lead programmers of Command & Conquer Renegade and some other games built some robots.

Pffft...Chameleon -_-

Guess what i'm gonna build next vacation... A remote controlled Stealth Tank, about the same size as that Chameleon, maybe a bit bigger

Damn, they were busy making robots instead of working on Renegade. But still managed to churn out an awesome game...

Just don't include stealth feature. You'll lose it allll the time.

It's the same reason I can never find my goddamn stealth suit. Put it somewhere one day, turned my back for 2 seconds and then it was just not there. :[

Thanks for the advice

Although..It would be nice to annoy the neighbors with a surprise stealth rush
