
Subject: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by _SSnipe_ on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 06:02:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Microsoft is one of the biggest things in the world, and tons of people hate it long with windows EA games is a big gaming company and many people hate them and other ones I have heard I cannot remember why is this so?

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by liquidv2 on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 06:08:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

people hate big business because they have small penises it's a proven fact actually when shit gets too big it gets more cliché and mainstream and a lot of people find that boring and shitty some people listen to indie music which i think sucks ass but to them it's great because it's not what everyone else is listening to also big things make people feel small and they either feel threatened by them or get jealous of them because they cannot compete all that or i actually know nothing at all but at least the first part is true

Have a nice day

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by R315r4z0r on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 06:08:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I like EA and semi-like Microsoft. (Maybe if they didn't charge me double the amount for Xbox live and then continue to charge me until I bought another month...)

However, as said above, especially in the gaming industry, the more companies you control, the more fans you have to please, and thus the more generic "everyone gets what they want" kind of games come out.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by Goztow on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 08:03:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I don't mind people hating them but they need to be consequent and not use any objects/services they make then. That includes not pirating them, of course.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by Xylaquin on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 09:28:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

people don't like microsoft, or more-over, Windows because they're dumb and can't work computers.

people don't like EA because of R315r4z0r's second point

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by Spyder on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 09:36:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Big companies most likely think:

"We have our name, we have our fame, we can release whatever we want for the price we ask, people will buy it."

Also, sometimes they even force their own creations into their releases. Microsoft inherits their own browser IE7 in Vista, they inherit Media Player etc. Though Winamp is proven to be better than WMP and Firefox is better than IE7.

They're just a big bunch of jackasses which are only out on MONEY.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by danpaul88 on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 09:37:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have no issues with Microsoft, their products are generally of a high quality and fairly stable. Their Visual Studio line of products in particular are very impressive and I have yet to find any other IDE which rivals it in terms of integration and usability.

Most of Microsofts products are let down by third party code, particularly their operating systems. Vista in particular is plagued with buggy or non existant driver support from hardware manufacturers, and often gets the blame for things which are not actually it's fault, such as poorly written drivers and applications. People are too quick to lay the blame at Microsofts door because it happens to be the most obvious target to blame.

As for EA, I object to their treatment of the C&C franchise and their continued efforts to completely and utterly destroy everything it once stood for. However their other games are often very good (even if, sadly too often, heavily laden with DRM) and I have no intention of boycotting their entire product portfolio.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by ArtyWh0re on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 13:24:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Alot of big businesses revolve around making profit.
As far as I know one of the reasons why EA brough out Westwood and other companies was in order to increase its profiting potential.

I used to work for Morrisons when I did A levels.
There was alot of things wrong with the place but they were not willing to do anything about it due to the fact that they would be spending more money.
Since the Business(system) was already working they felt they need not spend their profits so they could be the most profitable supermarket in the UK.

I have no problem with Microsoft, I think their products and customer service are satisfying.

So the point im trying to make is that alot of big businesses have the aim to make profit and that they are so willing to do this to the point that hurting peoples feelings or ruining something else is not an issue that should be addressed.
ie EA buying out Westwood and Taking C&C away from them.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by cAmpa on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 15:30:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Their monopol abuse sucks alot, Microsoft is the best example.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by mr£\$Ä-z on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 15:34:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

cAmpa wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 09:30 Their monopol abuse sucks alot, Microsoft is the best example.

They abuse like you and your Modrights.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 16:52:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I mostly dislike large companies because they often have little competition when they get too big, ruining innovation. And what little innovation there is, is very slow. Whereas when you have a ton of smaller companies (Rather, companies all on the same level), they all compete to create a better product. 'Tis the basis of capitalism, and it works quite well. Until the company gets TOO big, that is.

Thankfully, the nature of revolt is also in our nature, so when a company gets too big, people bash it to keep it under control, much like how alot of C&C fans bash EA. It's not exactly the best choice or the most intelligent, but it's somewhat necessary to keep EA in line. Otherwise, we'll continue getting shitty games.

As for Microsoft, I'm kind of indifferent to them. They DO have plenty of great products, and for being one of the largest companies in the world, they have a TON to manage, so I can sympathize with them not being able to please everyone. But, on the other hand, things like Vista and such have little to no excuse to have been released.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by Herr Surth on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 17:17:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

danpaul88 wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 03:37

As for EA, I object to their treatment of the C&C franchise and their continued efforts to completely and utterly destroy everything it once stood for.

What DID the C&C franchise stand for?

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 17:53:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:

What DID the C&C franchise stand for?

A deep and intriguing universe filled with many, many interesting aspects, aswell as unique and innovative gameplay.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by dr3w2 on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 18:01:15 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nero wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 03:36

Also, sometimes they even force their own creations into their releases. Microsoft inherits their own browser IE7 in Vista, they inherit Media Player etc. Though Winamp is proven to be better than WMP and Firefox is better than IE7.

This makes me giggle. Why would people complain that a company released THEIR OWN PRODUCT and incorporate other parts of it WITH THERE OWN PRODUCT. Thats kind of umm... fucking obvious.

Also "proven to be better" . NO. your wrong. Which application to use is a preference, not a proven fact. I personally like WMP a lot more then winamp, and find firefox slow at opening. So, i use IE becuae it is my PREFERENCE.

But seriously who would have thought of the idea of NOT advertising your competition...yes.. big bad microsoft.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by danpaul88 on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 18:06:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Have the people who keep going on about how Microsoft shouldn't bundle IE with Windows given any thought to how exactly they would go about downloading their browser of choice WITHOUT having an existing browser to get to said browsers website with? In that respect it's absolutely essential that Microsoft include a browser with their operating system, otherwise nobody could get online.

Personally, I use IE to go and download Firefox. That's my personal preference. But if it wasn't available to me, how on earth would I get Firefox in the first place? One thing I would like is the ability to easily UNinstall it later on mind you.

I don't hear anyone complaining about Apple bundling Safari with their operating system.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by cAmpa on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 19:15:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

09:30 Their monopol abuse sucks alot, Microsoft is the best example.
They abuse like you and your Modrights.

Added to ignore list.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by Nukelt15 on Tue, 13 Jan 2009 21:07:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The best reason I can think of is that, when a company reaches a certain critical mass, it no longer needs to ask its customers what they want... instead, it begins telling its customers what they want. Smaller businesses depend more heavily on the good graces of their customers, and are thus more strongly compelled to provide quality services in order to retain those customers. Big business knows that it can do just about whatever it damn well pleases and, unless it gets really unlucky, enough people will buy the product anyway because it is cheaper or more widely known.

I don't really hate the business for being what it is; I hate the customers for not being smart or motivated enough to force it to change. I strongly dislike certain companies, but in the end they're really just looking out for their own skins. The customers are responsible for creating an environment in which parasitic, unethical businesses may thrive and grow rather than dying on the vine.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by luv2pb on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 01:09:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

People are to dumb and/or ignorant to think on their own. Look at all the vista haters. Every one of them is a mindless twat who jumped on the band wagon.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by [\[NE\]Fobby\[GEN\]](#) on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 01:16:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Windows does have its problems, but I don't hate Microsoft for it. I think Microsoft is doing a fairly good job, if it were Sony in their place instead, my operating system probably would not last for longer than a week.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by pawky on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 01:22:04 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

luv2pb wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 19:09 People are to dumb and/or ignorant to think on their own. Look at all the vista haters. Every one of them is a mindless twat who jumped on the band wagon.

EXACTLY!

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bXrKO33Rc2g>

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by BlueThen on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 02:14:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nero wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 03:36 Big companies most likely think:

"We have our name, we have our fame, we can release whatever we want for the price we ask, people will buy it."

Also, sometimes they even force their own creations into their releases. Microsoft inherits their own browser IE7 in Vista, they inherit Media Player etc. Though Winamp is proven to be better than WMP and Firefox is better than IE7.

They're just a big bunch of jackasses which are only out on MONEY.

They do that because it's standard. You can't really expect them to not include any browser with Vista, because that would make it a lot more difficult for people to access websites. FireFox isn't their product, and it's probably illegal in some way for Vista to use it as a standard.

Same goes for Windows Media Player. It's standard on Windows. Also, you can't really "prove" that one product is better than another, that's just too biased. Just because you happen to prefer those things over Vista's standard programs, doesn't mean it's wrong for them to be using these products.

What most of everyone else here is saying pretty much sums it up. Large companies yearns to please everyone, so they have to pretty much desperately try and release things that makes everyone happy, which never really works.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by nikki6ixx on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 02:54:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nero wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 03:36 Big companies most likely think:

"We have our name, we have our fame, we can release whatever we want for the price we ask, people will buy it."

Also, sometimes they even force their own creations into their releases. Microsoft inherits their own browser IE7 in Vista, they inherit Media Player etc. Though Winamp is proven to be better than WMP and Firefox is better than IE7.

That's like complaining to McDonalds that they don't serve Burger King... or buying a Sony TV, and expecting it to come with a Toshiba remote.

Nero wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 03:36
They're just a big bunch of jackasses which are only out on MONEY.

HOLY SHIT! YOU JUST WON ECONOMICS 101!!!

Of course they're out to make money... you expect them to do all the work, and then just 'give' it to you? Would YOU hold a job if your employer demanded you work for free?

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by nope.avi on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 13:09:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

luv2pb wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 20:09People are to dumb and/or ignorant to think on their own. Look at all the vista haters. Every one of them is a mindless twat who jumped on the band wagon.
Couldn't be that vista legitimately sucked when it first came out?

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by saberhawk on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 13:38:40 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Baker wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 07:09luv2pb wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 20:09People are to dumb and/or ignorant to think on their own. Look at all the vista haters. Every one of them is a mindless twat who jumped on the band wagon.
Couldn't be that vista legitimately sucked when it first came out?

Vista worked surprisingly well at launch compared to the last major consumer operating system Microsoft released (Yes, I'm talking about XP)

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 14:07:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yeah, XP was pretty damn glitchy when first released too, although the difference is that Vista still is pretty buggy. Even without the bugs, compatibility sucks, and there's too many workarounds to get stuff to work IMO.

Sadly, as I said before, the hatred and bashing of Vista is somewhat necessary, otherwise they'd probably not be working on Windows 7. Believe it or not, the bashing and such is necessary to make a better product out of a mega monopoly company.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by saberhawk on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 15:55:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Cabal8616 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 08:07Yeah, XP was pretty damn glitchy when first released too, although the difference is that Vista still is pretty buggy. Even without the bugs, compatibility sucks, and there's too many workarounds to get stuff to work IMO.

Sadly, as I said before, the hatred and bashing of Vista is somewhat necessary, otherwise they'd probably not be working on Windows 7. Believe it or not, the bashing and such is necessary to make a better product out of a mega monopoly company.

Depends on your computer. XP is still buggy and laggy like hell on this laptop, whereas I have no problems with Vista x64 on here whatsoever.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by luv2pb on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 21:22:25 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Baker wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 08:09luv2pb wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 20:09People are to dumb and/or ignorant to think on their own. Look at all the vista haters. Every one of them is a mindless twat who jumped on the band wagon.

Couldn't be that vista legitimately sucked when it first came out?

Sure it had its problems when it came out. Every single windows ever has. I'm talking about the ones that to this day type stuff like VIST SUCKS OMFG or FUCK MICROSOFT THEY R GAY.

You know the ones. They have either have no fact for their opinion they just jumped on the bandwagon or they were to stupid to use it right.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by VIOLENT DAUGHTER on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 22:17:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

a lot of people hate micrisoft because xbox360

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by u6795 on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 22:37:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 17:17a lot of people hate micrisoft because xbox360

The 360 is fucking awesome! What do they play over their in Thailand?

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by danpaul88 on Wed, 14 Jan 2009 22:49:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

u6795 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 22:37

The 360 is fucking awesome!

Sorry! I couldn't help myself

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by Nukelt15 on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 02:43:49 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Vista is still too much of a system hog, has too many backwards-compatibility issues, and still includes too much DRM and too much handholding. That's why I bash it, not because of the bandwagon- because, while it functions smoothly now, it is still a bad product. In my own humble opinion.

But that's another thread. Several of them, actually.

To its credit, Microsoft is very diligent about patching, and I can't recall ever having been charged for anything that should have been free. XP, as wonky as it was back when it came out, is running like a finely tuned perpetual motion machine these days; I haven't had a hiccup that wasn't caused by third-party software or user error for years now. They also used to make some damn fine joysticks, and I've never found a mouse that made my hand happy quite like the IME3. Big business does, quite often, get it right- but they just as often get it wrong, and when they do they're more likely to try to smooth over the failure than admit to it and try something different.

They (big buisness in general, not just MS) also like to release similar products over and over with minor tweaks and changes- which is what EA is mainly guilty of. For examples of that, you need only look as far as The Sims or any of their licensed sports titles. Toymakers do this a lot as well, especially the ones who are big on dolls- they'll release a particular set of clothing that may only be had through the purchase of a whole new doll rather than as part of an accessory pack. You see a lot less of that kind of thing with smaller companies and independently-owned companies because they have to constantly innovate or get plowed under. On the other hand, much of the reason why smaller companies tend to be more innovative is because the larger ones aren't; if they didn't have that giant steamroller chugging along at their heels they might not be so motivated to move forwards.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by renohol on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 08:15:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My biggest gripe is that i actually worked for a big business...

GE was the company and not many companis are bigger than they are. While I apreciated the work and their investment in my community a very alarming trend has developed within the site I worked at as well as other electronic manufacturing companies.

GE was the worst as they took imported labor off the boats from communists countries and actually made them "Specialists", instead of the more revelant term "Communists" which basically means crporate spys, not the corporate spys u r thinking of but rather spys who spy on and tattle constantly on their co workers.

Luckily I got out of that corporation 3 yrs ago and am now unemployed but can at least move around freely without holding my breath and go to the store with out some GE communist screaming at my back, temping me to join a civil war against this communism.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by VIOLENT DAUGHTER on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 13:46:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

u6795 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 16:37VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 17:17a lot of people hate micrisoft because xbox360

The 360 is fucking awesome! What do they play over their in Thailand?
you don't know about red light?
ask other people
in thailand they play wii,ps3,xbox 360 1,2,3

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by u6795 on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 19:46:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 08:46u6795 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 16:37VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 17:17a lot of people hate

micrisoft because xbox360

The 360 is fucking awesome! What do they play over their in Thailand?

you don't know about red light?

ask other people

in thailand they play wii,ps3,xbox 360 1,2,3

Of course I know about the Red Rings of Death, I've even experienced it, but it's fixable and although it's a pain to deal with it's not an end-all.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?

Posted by _SSnipe_ on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 20:08:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

R315r4z0r wrote on Mon, 12 January 2009 22:08 I like EA and semi-like Microsoft. (Maybe if they didn't charge me double the amount for Xbox live and then continue to charge me until I bought another month...)

However, as said above, especially in the gaming industry, the more companies you control, the more fans you have to please, and thus the more generic "everyone gets what they want" kind of games come out.

Ya big companys like that chagre a great deal, your second point makes sense Xylaquin wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 01:28 people don't like microsoft, or more-over, Windows because they're dumb and can't work computers.

Besides apples there no other type of OS really besides maybe a few more that home users can really use I guess which is why they use windows danpaul88 wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 01:37 I have no issues with Microsoft, their products are generally of a high quality and fairly stable. Their Visual Studio line of products in particular are very impressive and I have yet to find any other IDE which rivals it in terms of integration and usability.

Most of Microsofts products are let down by third party code, particularly their operating systems. Vista in particular is plagued with buggy or non existant driver support from hardware manufacturers, and often gets the blame for things which are not actually it's fault, such as poorly written drivers and applications. People are too quick to lay the blame at Microsofts door because it happens to be the most obvious target to blame.

As for EA, I object to their treatment of the C&C franchise and their continued efforts to completely and utterly destroy everything it once stood for. However their other games are often very good (even if, sadly too often, heavily laden with DRM) and I have no intention of boycotting their entire product portfolio.

I also hate how they fucked up the cnc world but if lets say cnc was made in the way they wanted it to the new cnc games are still pretty fun for what they have planned Nukelt15 wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 13:07The best reason I can think of is that, when a company reaches a certain critical mass, it no longer needs to ask its customers what they want... instead, it begins telling its customers what they want. Smaller businesses depend more heavily on the good graces of their customers, and are thus more strongly compelled to provide quality services in order to retain those customers. Big business knows that it can do just about whatever it damn well pleases and, unless it gets really unlucky, enough people will buy the product anyway because it is cheaper or more widely known.

I don't really hate the business for being what it is; I hate the customers for not being smart or motivated enough to force it to change. I strongly dislike certain companies, but in the end they're really just looking out for their own skins. The customers are responsible for creating an environment in which parasitic, unethical businesses may thrive and grow rather than dying on the vine.

So its kinda like they buy what ever they get so micosoft can sell what ever they want?

Saberhawk wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 05:38Baker wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 07:09luv2pb wrote on Tue, 13 January 2009 20:09People are to dumb and/or ignorant to think on their own. Look at all the vista haters. Every one of them is a mindless twat who jumped on the band wagon.

Couldn't be that vista legitimately sucked when it first came out?

Vista worked surprisingly well at launch compared to the last major consumer operating system Microsoft released (Yes, I'm talking about XP)

Maybe cause you have a pc that can handle it

u6795 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 14:37VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 17:17a lot of people hate micrisoft because xbox360

The 360 is fucking awesome! What do they play over their in Thailand?

hell if its like me any system will be good but fuck now I want ps3, even tho iv seen tons of vidoes comapring the 2 they said 360 has better grpahics while ps3 has more features whats you guys think?

u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 11:46VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 08:46u6795 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 16:37VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 17:17a lot of people hate micrisoft because xbox360

The 360 is fucking awesome! What do they play over their in Thailand?

you don't know about red light?

ask other people

in thailand they play wii,ps3,xbox 360 1,2,3

Of course I know about the Red Rings of Death, I've even experienced it, but it's fixable and although it's a pain to deal with it's not an end-all.

if I get the three rings of hell what can i do to prevent it? and if it does happen how much does it cost to fix it?

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by u6795 on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 20:23:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well, the main reason I like the 360 is the games just appeal to me. Halo 3 and Left 4 Dead are just amazing. Not sure if L4D is on other consoles but it's great on Xbox live.

Also, you could try the towel trick as a temporary fix to your 360 BUT I highly recommend against it as it can cause more lasting damage. Usually they want you to send your xbox in to be repaired, or they'll give you a new one, provided your warranty hasn't expired.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by _SSnipe_ on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 20:39:32 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 12:23Well, the main reason I like the 360 is the games just appeal to me. Halo 3 and Left 4 Dead are just amazing. Not sure if L4D is on other consoles but it's great on Xbox live.

Also, you could try the towel trick as a temporary fix to your 360 BUT I highly recommend against it as it can cause more lasting damage. Usually they want you to send your xbox in to be repaired, or they'll give you a new one, provided your warranty hasn't expired.
Does a warranty come with it, or do you have to buy one

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by u6795 on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 20:43:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

SSnipe wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 15:39u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 12:23Well, the main reason I like the 360 is the games just appeal to me. Halo 3 and Left 4 Dead are just amazing. Not sure if L4D is on other consoles but it's great on Xbox live.

Also, you could try the towel trick as a temporary fix to your 360 BUT I highly recommend against it as it can cause more lasting damage. Usually they want you to send your xbox in to be repaired, or they'll give you a new one, provided your warranty hasn't expired.
Does a warranty come with it, or do you have to buy one
There's a warranty that comes with the xbox originally I'm pretty sure, but it expires after like a year or two, I suppose you can probably renew it for a charge but I don't know.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by _SSnipe_ on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 21:25:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 12:43SSnipe wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 15:39u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 12:23Well, the main reason I like the 360 is the games just appeal to me. Halo 3 and Left 4 Dead are just amazing. Not sure if L4D is on other consoles but it's great on Xbox live.

Also, you could try the towel trick as a temporary fix to your 360 BUT I highly recommend against it as it can cause more lasting damage. Usually they want you to send your xbox in to be repaired, or they'll give you a new one, provided your warranty hasn't expired.

Does a warranty come with it, or do you have to buy one

There's a warranty that comes with the xbox originally I'm pretty sure, but it expires after like a year or two, I suppose you can probably renew it for a charge but I don't know.

Dang I dont think i have a box or receipt if that were to happen

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by mr£\$Ä-z on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 21:52:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Go Die with the crap PS3, XBOX has DAMN FUCK MUCH SUPPORT, you can even get a free 512MB Card for free if you have an XBOX. And much more like a totally new Menu etc.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by u6795 on Thu, 15 Jan 2009 22:14:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

DAMN FUCK MUCH SUPPORT, you can even get a free 512MB Card for free if you have an XBOX. And much more like a totally new Menu etc.

PS3 is a pretty solid console, but I'm with you all the way man. 360 is the way to go for awesome shit like the new xbox experience. Netflix? On MY xbox? It's more likely than you think.

Sure, the avatar system may be a ripoff of the Mii thing but hey, fuck your shit yo, seXbox for life!

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by _SSnipe_ on Fri, 16 Jan 2009 00:08:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

DAMN FUCK MUCH SUPPORT, you can even get a free 512MB Card for free if you have an XBOX. And much more like a totally new Menu etc.

How can i get a free card for it?

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by VIOLENT DAUGHTER on Fri, 16 Jan 2009 06:00:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 11:46VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 08:46u6795 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 16:37VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 17:17a lot of people hate micrisoft because xbox360

The 360 is fucking awesome! What do they play over their in Thailand?

you don't know about red light?

ask other people

in thailand they play wii,ps3,xbox 360 1,2,3

Of course I know about the Red Rings of Death, I've even experienced it, but it's fixable and although it's a pain to deal with it's not an end-all.

it can repair?

other people tell me if red light happen

you never can repair it

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by _SSnipe_ on Fri, 16 Jan 2009 06:01:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 22:00u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 11:46VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 08:46u6795 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 16:37VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 17:17a lot of people hate micrisoft because xbox360

The 360 is fucking awesome! What do they play over their in Thailand?

you don't know about red light?

ask other people

in thailand they play wii,ps3,xbox 360 1,2,3

Of course I know about the Red Rings of Death, I've even experienced it, but it's fixable and although it's a pain to deal with it's not an end-all.

it can repair?

other people tell me if red light happen

you never can repair it

yes you can but im drifting off back to topic?

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by VIOLENT DAUGHTER on Fri, 16 Jan 2009 06:03:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

DAMN FUCK MUCH SUPPORT, you can even get a fre 512MB Card for free if you have an XBOX. And much more like a totally new Menu etc.

ps3 have a lot of great software for asian player american and european only think about peanut butter and fps

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by VIOLENT DAUGHTER on Fri, 16 Jan 2009 06:05:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

SSnipe wrote on Fri, 16 January 2009 00:01VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 22:00u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 11:46VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 08:46u6795 wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 16:37VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Wed, 14 January 2009 17:17a lot of people hate micrisoft because xbox360

The 360 is fucking awesome! What do they play over their in Thailand?
you don't know about red light?

ask other people

in thailand they play wii,ps3,xbox 360 1,2,3

Of course I know about the Red Rings of Death, I've even experienced it, but it's fixable and although it's a pain to deal with it's not an end-all.
it can repair?

other people tell me if red light happen
you never can repair it

yes you can but im drifting off back to topic?
you send it to microsoft?

but other people buy xbox360 and live in another country can't send it to microsoft after they found red light may throw it to bin

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by u6795 on Sat, 17 Jan 2009 02:07:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nnnnnnnnnnevermind

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by VIOLENT DAUGHTER on Mon, 19 Jan 2009 02:43:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 14:43SSnipe wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 15:39u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 12:23Well, the main reason I like the 360 is the games just appeal to me. Halo 3 and Left 4 Dead are just amazing. Not sure if L4D is on other consoles but it's great on Xbox live.

Also, you could try the towel trick as a temporary fix to your 360 BUT I highly recommend against it as it can cause more lasting damage. Usually they want you to send your xbox in to be repaired, or they'll give you a new one, provided your warranty hasn't expired.

Does a warranty come with it, or do you have to buy one
There's a warranty that comes with the xbox originally I'm pretty sure, but it expires after like a year or two, I suppose you can probably renew it for a charge but I don't know.
you buy ps3 if broken you can repair it but if you buy xbox360 and found red light and your warranty expire you will throw it to bin and other people have xbox360 and live in another country can't send it to microsoft
xbox360 very suck

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by u6795 on Mon, 19 Jan 2009 03:20:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Sun, 18 January 2009 21:43u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 14:43SSnipe wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 15:39u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 12:23Well, the main reason I like the 360 is the games just appeal to me. Halo 3 and Left 4 Dead are just amazing. Not sure if L4D is on other consoles but it's great on Xbox live.

Also, you could try the towel trick as a temporary fix to your 360 BUT I highly recommend against it as it can cause more lasting damage. Usually they want you to send your xbox in to be repaired, or they'll give you a new one, provided your warranty hasn't expired.
Does a warranty come with it, or do you have to buy one
There's a warranty that comes with the xbox originally I'm pretty sure, but it expires after like a year or two, I suppose you can probably renew it for a charge but I don't know.
you buy ps3 if broken you can repair it
but if you buy xbox360 and found red light and your warranty expire you will throw it to bin and other people have xbox360 and live in another country can't send it to microsoft
xbox360 very suck

And Sony's warranties DON'T expire? Sony sucks just as much as Microsoft. Maybe even more, because they're Japanese.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by nikki6ixx on Mon, 19 Jan 2009 05:24:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

After like, 16 years, my SNES still fires up like it's brand new. Now that's quality.

Subject: Re: Why do people hate big business?
Posted by VIOLENT DAUGHTER on Mon, 19 Jan 2009 06:08:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

u6795 wrote on Sun, 18 January 2009 21:20VIOLENT DAUGHTER wrote on Sun, 18 January 2009 21:43u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 14:43SSnipe wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 15:39u6795 wrote on Thu, 15 January 2009 12:23Well, the main reason I like the 360 is the games just appeal to me. Halo 3 and Left 4 Dead are just amazing. Not sure if L4D is on other consoles but it's great on Xbox live.

Also, you could try the towel trick as a temporary fix to your 360 BUT I highly recommend against it as it can cause more lasting damage. Usually they want you to send your xbox in to be repaired, or they'll give you a new one, provided your warranty hasn't expired.

Does a warranty come with it, or do you have to buy one

There's a warranty that comes with the xbox originally I'm pretty sure, but it expires after like a year or two, I suppose you can probably renew it for a charge but I don't know.

you buy ps3 if broken you can repair it

but if you buy xbox360 and found red light and your warranty expire you will throw it to bin and other people have xbox360 and live in another country can't send it to microsoft

xbox360 very suck

And Sony's warranties DON'T expire? Sony sucks just as much as Microsoft. Maybe even more, because they're Japanese.

after warranties of ps3 expire and ps3 broken we can repair it with other engineer but if xbox360 have red light and user live in another country we can't repair it and must throw it to bin if we have warranties we still can't send xbox360 to microsoft either