hi there, so ive read the faq, read most of the errors ive been receiving. its funny the other day i installed Windows 7 64 bit and installed renegade no problem. i reverted back to my windows ultimate 64 bit because of punkbuster issues. anywayz i would install the disc with my code, install the patch, then install the no cd, then i would get GAME.EXE, AND GAME2.EXE AND WWCONFIG.EXE and i would click the box as administrator and compatibility mode for Windows XP SP2 for all 3. i then would install renguard. i would then go to gamespy, rectangular renguard would pop up and i would wait, hmmm no core patch installing, btw the link to fix the registry does not work from the forums. i can play the game without renguard fine, well sort of whenever i quit i would get an error from renegade.exe, if u need anything from me to help you help me.

its not fair that pple forcerg me when its not needed? joejj80 thats forcerg abuse. dude whispered me said he forcerg everyone whether they cheated or not, because he has it installed and working.

Renguard is discontinued, really :-S. I have the impression you managed to install it but can't manage to get it to run? Is that correct?

First thing's first: People like joejj80 really need to learn the truth. Renguard is obsolete and has been "replaced" by BIATCH (servers) and Resurrection (mostly clients, but some servers use it too). Just ignore such people and maybe go to another server which doesn't require you to run renguard.

Ok that was one, now number two. I suggest you reinstall Renegade, after that apply the official 1.037 patch. When you're done patching download CP2 from these forums (CP2).

After CP2 download the newest Scripts 3.44

Then install Renegade Resurrection. You can download it at: http://www.icefinch.net

This will probably fix your problems. I'm running Vista Ultimate x64 too and this always works for me. Else try updating:
- DirectX
- Graphics Card Drivers
- Chipset Drivers
- BIOS
- Maybe some vista hotfixes (mostly for x86/32-bit emulation)

Unless the protection code has been changed to something 32-bit, RenGuard isn't compatible with x64 anything because of the removal of NTVDM (see http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Virtual_DOS_machine)

I can run Renguard on this machine. It likes to do "unauthorized renegade instance terminated" a lot, though.

well tx nero and others, so ive done the same way as i was told in here for installation. it works only to play, but not renguard. first time i tried it, said some error i cant remember, the second time i tried it it said i had some lan exploit but with all this time with no renguard. It seems not to matter that i have ressurrection now cuz i keep on getting this message that i dont have renguard. back in the days when ihad XP pro, i could run renguard and it let me. once i get it to work id like to install that uber map pack and play some new maps with some old friends if they still play. you can thank joejj80 for me to try to get renguard reinstalled on this machine. joejj80 isfrom the n00bstories community, to !forcerg anyone he wants to force and asks others to do the same because he has it, and think i used to know him as a friend, now hes some loser that wants everyone to have rengaurd, regardless if hes abusing it or not.

64 bit is a great new technology that i hardly have any problems with, really its only renguard i cant seem to get working properly that is exactly the problem ive installed the correct procedure to install the game, did the run admin and even compatibility checked off. but even though renguard is installed it from that link CP2 with the patchall, it hasnt started up properly like that message"something about im on some renguard protected server"

my name in game is CH1EF
