Happy Birthday C&C Renegade!

C&C Renegade is 7 years old as of today. Congrats to all community members for making it this long! C&C Renegade is a long lasting game, and despite its lack of early sales, lack of support, and its experience with various cheats, the game is still alive and well. Big thanks goes out to those who have contributed to C&C Renegade over the years, including the various total conversion and server side mods, anti-cheat efforts and server owners.

C&C Renegade's unique gameplay is what has let it live for this long; let's hope to see the same gameplay being reiterated in Renegade X.

Renegade X: Gameplay Footage!

We decided to release a quick 1-minute compilation of ingame 1st and 3rd person clips from Renegade X in celebration of this day. It's a followup to our Holiday trailer, showing off the new light tank, flamethrower, the new HUD, and Walls Flying. Enjoy!

Remote C4

Our remote C4 is now complete! With a simple left click you could plant these babies, and a right click blows them up. Perfect against just about anything - ambush vehicles and infantry and close range, set traps, or blow up a building via its master control terminal!

Light Tank Ingame

You saw the Nod Light Tank last month, and now it's ready for action. Check out the trailer above to see it fight, here is a screenshot:

More Walls Flying pics!

That's it for now fellas. Happy Renegade day and keep your eyes open for some exciting updates shortly!

Truly awesome. Everything looks so much more detailed, yet instantly recognisable as the original Renegade designs. Take the Remote C4 as an example: it's kind of hard to tell the difference, even though there are lots of details that weren't there before.

Also, 7 years? Wow, that's a bit scary.

That part with the Light tank on Field is awesome! Talk about a total conversion!

Can't wait to see how the Flamer turns out!

Thanks you and thanks for this update on the great anniversivery of Ren!

The only thing I see that could possibly make RenegadeX unsuccessful is possibly how the infantry respond/react/feel/handle/etcetc. From all the videos I have seen so far the infantry seem rather unnatural and much more different than Renegade.

They have yet to animate the infantry from scratch. They said that somewhere in the past.

I hear ya but the good thing that will come from it is that it won't be disadvantage to play from the first person view...

And their weapon remakes are pretty awesome too so that helps the experience...

You don't really need a super high-end computer to play Renegade X. UT3's minimum system requirements are actually quite low.

You can play ut3 fairly well with a $500 computer and a $100 video card.

True the game is playable but to truly enjoy the graphics and stuff, it would be much better on a higher-end PC.
