Well for brenbot to work properly it reads from the log file what is going on server thats how renegade bots actually work, but they send msgs and notices directly to the fds console tho. You cannot stop the ssgm logging otherwise the bot will not work.

People might be willing to help you if you uploaded the actual screenshot and not a zip with the screenshot in it.

You mean the map name and such? That's NOT an error, it's just telling you the current game status....

If you look at the time remaining it's actually about every 30 seconds, which is the time interval BReBot uses to ask for updates, so yes, it's perfectly normal.

If your planning to host a real server and not just a lagfest then your going to need to pay and get it hosted on a dedicated server with a good internet upload.

Multi-core processors are not essential, since the FDS itself will only ever use a single core anyway, however a fast hard disk would help with SSGM logging. Any modern PC can run the FDS program fairly adequatly, however what really makes the difference between lagfest servers and real servers is the upload speed to the internet, and this is why dedicated servers are all but essential for a decent server.

Also, you should consider WHY you want to host a server. Take a look in XWIS and compare the number of empty servers with the number of full ones. Yes, that's right, there are TOO MANY servers for the number of players. So, by hosting yet another server, you simply exacerbate the problem, spend time and potentially money hosting a server that's unlikely to ever attract a decent number of players without obtaining an a0000000000000000 nickname.

To put it bluntly, your most likely wasting your time if your planning to host this as a public server. Sorry if this sounds a bit harsh, but it's all true.

What you gotta do to attract players is create a new game mode *build is already taken try to find some of the missing game modes from renegade there is a lot i found looking thro renegade like king of the hill and things like that

That may work for a bit but after a few weeks the new modes are just old news and no one wants to play them.

Other than build mode me and a mate came up with like 3 years ago and its still doing well you just gotta get the best idea ever and work on it.

Yea, look at the build mode servers.
