place it in the back side!and if you are starting the game with something like 1000 credits, do it at the start! they won't have mines and you will have time to set the beacon, be sure

Well on the under map, if you start off at basically nothing moneywise, my tactic is to go engineer and plant some c4's on the other team's harvester. Hopefully my teammates would be attacking the harvester and fighting off the other team's player while I plant the c4's. I can usually take bout half the hitpoints of the harvester and if there's a flame thrower or grenader, we can finish the harvester. Then basically you have the advantage esp once you get an apc with an advanced engineer. Drive into their base and take out their tower or powerplant. Most likely they won't have enough money yet to have vechicles or mine the tower or powerplant because of the lost harvester. Then you know the rest two timed c4s and 2 remote c4s on the mct and plant mines around it to keep the peskey engineers away. If they try to repair or diffuze the c4, stand in the beam so it repairs you while you finish him off =E

The best thing you can do for your team at the beggining with no creds is to be an engi and repair YOUR harvester, almost no one does this but it will save your teams a$$ if you repair you harvester from attacks at the beggining. Also on a map with no base Defense and you are nod attack enemys until you get chem trooper and sneak into enemy base and blow the hell out of a building, it works becuase no one has the cash to mine the base yet so you have an edge. This works great on the volcano level becuase you can go straight across the tiberium in the middle and take out the power plant{i've had about a 70\% succes rate with this tactic on volcano.}

sounds good for volcano, I always forget to cross the tib field when I'm a chem. But a good team will often have people rushing or defending the GDI power plant, so there might be a bit too much traffic.

And guess that i find hidng behind the harvi? 2 sleath noddies trying to sneak into our base so latch my 2 remote c4 and bye bye noddie. I'm guessing they had beacons and were gonna beacon the refinery
