Although this will no doubt end in the spam forum (and I try my hardest to not let any of my posts slip into that shitfest of a hell-hole) and it will no doubt also attract all the gangster "wanna-be's", the young testosterone fuelled school kids and the lazy-ass stoners. Despite all that, I have to show my support for the green stuff.

So the legend goes, a bunch of kids met after school by some tree at 4.20 (16.20) to smoke some grass. The code word for grass amongst them became fourtwenty. Apparantly this code word spread and became a common term.

By the American calander today is 4/20, so it's pretty much claimed as the un-official cannabis day today.

Ah, OK. Funny how Wikipedia didn't reference it from it's article on April 20th, and my (admittedly brief due to crap internet here) google search didn't turn anything up. Oh well.

I never really got it. The potheads I knew celebrated it by smoking pot in their basement, eating pizza, and watching porn... but they did that every other day as well.
