Ok, im playing in Leveledit and decided to test the map in renegade... so i exported it... then im playing renegade and decided the agt shot to far into the field.. so i exited renegade.. started up RenX open my map, changed the size of a box then saved it then exited... but then i had forgot to Export it for use in level edit.. so i once again started up Renx... clicked File, open, then clicked on my map then i get this horrible message:

GMAX

File Open Failed: C:\Gmax\gamepacks\westwood\RenX\mymap.gmax

The wierd part that gets me is that it WORKED fine 5 minutes prior to changing the box's dimensions.. wasnt a building or anything.. just a simple box....

please tell me this is fixable

been working on this map for 2 weeks

Either you corrupted it when you saved (probably because you closed it before it was finished saving) or you need the File Corruption Patch:

ENGLISH: WinXP Gmax Corruption fix

This fixes the problem with corrupted GMAX files under Windows XP, ENGLISH version only.

yea this EXE wont work on my system... this download you presented me is for older systems... i get a message when launching the applicationg:

Setup has detected the service pack version of the system installed is new than the update that you are applying to it.

you can only install this update on a computer with no service packs installed.

(is there a newer version out there?)

thanks for the help i appreciate it.

im also going to try to import the level edit version into Renx.

but im hoping for a newer corruption fix download for this.

Level Edits doing the same problem.... i was editing guard towers making them have new weapons and such... then i saved it.. i didnt exit before it was done saving either... then went to go back into the file, and it is now corrupted.. it stops loading at basegate.w3d.. i dont even have that on my map anymore.. ????? why does level edit load items that ive deleted off my map...(i messed with a basegate like 3 days ago) now today it wont load my map
