A few tricks ive learned to stop the engees from getting in your base is to mine the doors, but the thing is the engees defuse the mines. so the best idea ive found to fix this is on the inside of the doors on the door frames, not on the floor. and this workes well for narrow passages, especially in tunnels. And try to put your mines on rocks and corners where they wont be seen but is still a heavy traffic area.

Try placing the mines in a line, going from the door too the MCT. Also, one thing you may want too try is putting the mines on the door frame, out of view from the outside. They run in and BOOM! Also... you can place Remote C4 there too. If you see them disarming the mines, set off the remote C4.

Also place the mines at head-height on doorframes and walls...explosions do extra damage to enemy head versus stepping on them.
