Not sure, maybe rain over here is different but when its quit big raindrops hitting puddles I do see bubbles

However, an explanation with loads of "fuck" does the trick it seems

Actually for madrackz defense, water does have big bubbles. But they don't float and the water would have to be moving very fast in order for it to do that. Well you need a better bubble texture and you should also keep them from floating to high in the sky. Because after all it is water bubbles, not bubbles (like soap).
