Seems like some1 just discovered the R-click "exploit".

Also the tactic with the Flame Tank is the same as they way you would use the Flamer in TF2 (for those who play) Hide and ambush, if you have the advantage of surprise + starting the fight from short range, you can beat any vehicle ingame, including orcas.

Isn't it, secondary fire and the left turret deals double the damage as normal? Something like that.

yes, for the flamer, but for roket vehicles it's tracking (and shoots out of right muzzle)

With vehicles with two muzzles (barrels) and only one weapon type the W3D engine makes secondary fire use only the left barrel.

Primary in flamer: Both barrels fire at same speed
Secondary in flamer: Although flames come out both barrels, the right one does nothing and the left one 'fires' twice as fast.

Easiest to demonstrate in a rocket emplacement.
