BR and other bots tell you which weapon the player was carrying at the time of the kill instead of which weapon was used to make the kill, which can sometimes be annoying if they're holding a pistol for example and make a load of kills with a timed c4.

The extended kill messages in RenegadeResurrection tell you the real weapon used for the kill, I'd like to request this functionality be included.

I'm pretty sure doing that won't be too hard as they're apparently going to change the netcode to having the client send the weapon, which made the damage to the server instead of just the damage as it is currently.
