Not really, it just doesn't let the site access your cookies or write any cookies. If you were IP banned, there wouldn't be a bit of difference.

There's no real effective way to permanently ban someone, which is why temporary bans are much better. It gives the banned person a good reason to respect their ban. If you permanently ban someone, he won't have a reason to respect his ban anymore.

However, as said before: I will permanently ban if really needed, and I'll count on the community to keep an eye on new accounts and existing double accounts then.

I don't think it annoys anyone here that Scrin is PM'ing others?

Not to mention that nearly all the beta guns are out on the streets anyways.

Its easy to find beta guns though most are in bad shape. The old m203 was just in a vehicle entry animation. Just check out all the stuff I released in the beta pack

Ever seen/opened the nice beta pack I released

I seriously doubt there is more 'REAL' E3 stuff out there, ok that E3 HUD thingy. No offence but the E3 stuff aint special anymore.

All there is missing is a few guns, which some are already fully remodeled or some are not known how they look. (The flamethrower from the renegade from 2000, got some vague screenshots of it though or the old railgun)

If you are going to hide up E3 stuff to show off. Then I will try to model it and release it.

To bad stuff like this is happening it is really a sign of Renegade dieing.....
