
Subject: ORCA?

Posted by Poskov on Fri, 03 Jul 2009 10:32:25 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I noticed that the word 'orca' as in orca fighter is usually capital. Is it an acronym for something?

Subject: Re: ORCA?

Posted by Boofst0rm on Fri, 03 Jul 2009 10:42:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

orange red colourful airplane

dunno

Subject: Re: ORCA?

Posted by LeeumDee on Fri, 03 Jul 2009 11:20:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ORCA:

Only Rainbows Can Argue

Subject: Re: ORCA?

Posted by Lone0001 on Fri, 03 Jul 2009 17:36:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Only Raveshaws Can Agree

Subject: Re: ORCA?

Posted by Dethdeath on Fri, 03 Jul 2009 20:29:39 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Orange Raspberry Cherry Avocado.

Subject: Re: ORCA?

Posted by Goztow on Sat, 04 Jul 2009 08:34:09 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Oh Random Canadian Aircraft

No serious, Orca doesn't stand for anything, VTOL does: vertical takeoff and landing (VTOL).

Subject: Re: ORCA?

Posted by _SSnipe_ on Sat, 04 Jul 2009 08:38:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Goztow wrote on Sat, 04 July 2009 01:34Oh Random Canadian Aircraft

No serious, Orca doesn't stand for anything, VTOL does: vertical takeoff and landing (VTOL).
Orca is just the first name for a series of VTOL aircrafts
