Aside from changing the calculation algorithm (which is a project that was mostly postponed when TT formed), are there any features you'd like to see?

Such as:
- signature images / XML feed
- individual game view
- view all games for one server

I'm just trying to determine a priority level for adding these and other features. I've recently changed my schedule at my business so I only have to work the two busiest nights of the week and have 5 days off.

Ladder per server. Monthly or trimesterly reset. Have more of the servers (or all if possible) list on the ladder. Statistics on server usage.

I do reset it monthly and I archive the stats. It should be automated, of course, but the times submitted to the ladder come from the server itself and some servers don't have the right time zones set so they come in after midnight. I just got one submitted today with a time set for June 14th.

Perhaps set the time sereverside then instead of clientside? That way, you would get proper stats, and wont get problems with the timezones and stuff.

People will probably flame me for this but... I see ladders/ranks/etc as very low priority and something I'd probably never check.
Not to say it's useless, but I don't think it should be something that would delay the release of TT.

Uhhh, it wouldn't. These would be features I would create and I am not currently doing any coding for TT. Don't worry about that.
