I could do with knowing the DDS file for the spray and apparently so does the starter of this topic.

It is definitely set in that emitter. And it's not even hard to change. Don't know why people are complaining :/

e_master01.dds has most of the emmiter textures, you could change those, but you could also change it from the w3d, really easy, open, and press Enter to edit. After you're finished you should go File>Export
