Tildeth wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 00:59 I'm just saying that it's going to affect the number of players in the servers running the fix, hence, my distaste for it. What about that don't you understand? Evidently everything, because every time I try and make you aware of these facts you go off raging about how unethical the entire clanwars league was for jumping out of their tank at the last second LOL.

Once again, you simply don't read my posts... either that or they're too painful for you to confront. I've simply proven you were LYING THROUGH YOUR TEETH when you said you support the idea of each community choosing whether to use the pointsfix or not. That's right. LYING THROUGH YOUR TEETH.

The clanwars situation proved where you really stand about each community's individual choice: you oppose it.

Tildeth wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 00:59 And don't worry, I made the poll.

yes, clearly you know how badly you're losing this argument so you change the subject to something that is totally irrelevant. "YEAH WELL MOST PEOPLE DON'T LIKE THE POINTSFIX!" well even if that's true (and the evidence is against you on this) so what? if we're giving servers the choice, some will use the pointsfix, some won't, and everybody's happy, right? (the one fly in the ointment, of course, is the jelly-games sleeperhold on the game listings, which shits all over your credibility whenever you talk about "most players" and, indeed, "dictators")

but you want a headcount, do you? ok, fine. but let's count it FAIRLY, shall we?

first, let's give the pointsfix the unique control over renegade the pointsbug has had for SIX YEARS. then, let's treat anyone advocating the pointsbug with the contempt people like you have shown me, for no reason. then, let's make it so the advocates of the pointsfix use the same appalling tactics the pointsbug supporters have used, thereby shitting all over their own credibility at every turn. Then, the two positions will be equivalent, so then the poll would be fair.

tildeth: "hi, i've come up with an improvement to the points system"

tildeth: "you can get points for shooting stuff you don't damage!"

spoon: "why...?"

tildeth: "DUHH! NO, NOT EVERYTHING! just vehicles."

spoon: "uh, why just vehicles? why not buildings and infantry too if this is the way your mind is working?"

tildeth: "i don't know. by the way, it won't happen all the time. just when the vehicles have green health."

spoon: "...why? why not when they have red/yellow health if this is what you're thinking?"

tildeth: "again, i don't know."

tildeth: "no, quite the opposite actually."

spoon: "is this gonna make people better players?"

tildeth: "hell no, people will waste time shooting tanks ineffectually instead of actually doing something useful like damaging the enemy or repairing their base."

spoon: "does it make the game fairer?"

spoon: "um.... maybe you think it'll be easier for new players?"

tildeth: "no, in fact it makes a simple points system a lot harder to understand."

spoon: "sorry bud, but i'm not seeing how your idea makes any sense AT ALL..."

i guess you don't read that many posts on the jelly forum, huh? i wasn't talking about joetorp. i get treated with more contempt than most cheaters, despite the fact i've done absolutely nothing wrong, and in fact have gone to great lengths to stick up for the interests of people who don't like the pointsfix, no matter how appallingly they treat me.

i thought we talked about the pointmod, and the pointmod isnt inserted in the forum. did you forgot?? its a game option.

if the ppls flame you in the forum, then its a forum thing. and this has nothing to do with the player-loss ingame.

you can see it here. i almost bet this topic get locked, coz you provoke a flame-war against you.

thats a really cheap tactic/strategy. stop that bullshit, and ppls will perhaps act normal and stop with flaming you.

We were talking about why the player count dropped. This DIDN'T happen to n00bstories, and n00bstories still seems to get more players - even now, after this whole exodus business, even though jelly still has its chokehold on the game listings.

i simply pointed out that there might be a bit more to it than that...

stop what? what have i done wrong, which would justify the disgusting way the majority of the jelly moderators and admins have treated me for some time? don't dodge this question, answer it or admit you can't answer it. i'm treated with more public contempt than msgtpain for fuck's sake.

well, thats easy to answer. just read your posts and replies and you can see why. your only luck is that my english is to bad to write such essays like you do. i could type it in german, but then the majority of the ppls cant read it. (you included) you provoke ppls, you make them angry, you insult them in a diplomatic way.. and so on. this is RIDICULOUS.

firstly, in the space of half an hour you've gone from "nobody except joetorp is doing this" to "ok, a lot of others are doing this but it's your fault"... how contemptible.

secondly, go actually read the pointfix debates. you'll see me civilly and logically advancing my own case. you'll see almost everyone on the other side resorting to character assassination, endless streams of insults, outright lying to make me look bad, etc. and DESPITE THIS you'll see me making concession after concession to these idiots, meeting people halfway when they have no intention of budging a single inch, and doing all sorts of favours for people who are treating me with more contempt than they treat most cheaters.

nobody has ever explained how i do anything wrong in these debates, and if you can't, here and now, you owe me an apology. you aren't the only one, of course, but you seem a bit more level-headed than the majority of the jelly mods and admins.

now you're just being dishonest. every single time i called someone a liar, it was entirely justified. if you wanna pretend that the anti-pointsfix crowd HAVEN'T been caught lying AGAIN AND AGAIN AND AGAIN AND AGAIN, then frankly you're on the verge of joining their ranks.

Spoony wrote on Sat, 03 October 2009 04:15 tellsson wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 14:51 lol?? Like 10% of our players in jelly1 use our forum, and this are almost all regs who still are here. They didnt leave j1. but the players who had a problem with the pointmod left j1, and played in another jelly server, without pointmod. (just a reminder, we talk about the player-loss coz the pointmod) so, yes, they are really separate.

hey, all i said was the pointsfix may not have been the only reason.

and i said that the player loss (coz pointmod) has nothing to do with how admins/mods act in the forum.

Spoony wrote on Sat, 03 October 2009 04:15 tellsson wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 14:51 Roflmao!! And exactly in this few sentences, you showed us all what i did mean. Playing the personification of innocence. Many ppls told you in many posts what they think about your debates, and about your "choice of words". of corse you did defend yourself. Its ok, its your opinion about yourself. But dont try to instill your opinion about yourself into other ppls. no, in this few sentences I showed you you were talking complete bullshit and you can't answer the perfectly simple question: what am I doing so very wrong? like i said earlier, you have a diplomatic way to attack/insult/provocate ppls in the forums. you try to instill your opinion into other ppls. but ppls have theyr own opinion, perhaps you can start to accept this.

Spoony wrote on Sat, 03 October 2009 04:15 here you are again:

I do NOT know what you mean at all. I don't think there is anything wrong with the way I debate stuff like the pointsfix, and nobody has ever successfully explained that there is. Plenty of people have tried and failed CATASTROPHICALLY (gladiator is probably the best example of this, and of course everybody jumps all over his post like he's just achieved world peace or something, whereas anyone can plainly see he's talking COMPLETE bollocks) here you are again:

Spoony wrote on Sat, 03 October 2009 04:15 tellsson wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 14:51 And what did you?? You just picked the sentences where they did explain something wrong, and then you called them liars and such, till they gave up. easy way to get yourself the feeling of a winner.

Spoony wrote on Sat, 03 October 2009 04:15 tellsson wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 14:51 What would you do, if the germans in this forum start a debate about you, in german. You could ignore it, and they all could laugh about you, how you dodge this debate, and so on. Or you could try to defend yourself and you would make so many faillores, coz you fail in german lang. And they could destroy you with powerfully eloquent essays like you do with others here, and you would finally see how cheap and mean that is. I'll just repeat what I said before.

Two problems. 1. I never said I could speak German. 2. I don't generally hang around forums where speaking German is the norm. This seems pretty straightforward to me.

Nice excuses. So you dont have the balls to try it. Many others had the balls to try it for an important issue like the pointmod debate, coz they thought its time to say theyr own opinion. I would like to see a german forum for renegade. (i mean a real forum, like this forum or jelly forum and not this crappy german fansites)

You want an answer how you act? k, here it is:

Du hast eine bestimmte Art die Leute zu provozieren, du drehst ihnen die Wörter im Mund herum und biegst sie so zurecht, dass am Schluss alles gegen sie spricht. Du attackierst Leute, beleidigst sie und pöbelst sie an. Du kannst nicht einfach nur sagen: sie haben verloren. Du sagst es in einer provozierenden Art, etwa so: du hast fatalerweise abgrundtief verloren. Dies ist pure Provokation, und stiftet die Leute regelrecht an, dir dementsprechend harte Antworten zu geben. Nur damit du nachher dastehen kannst und allen erzählen kannst wie ungerecht dich die Leute behandeln. Dafür gibt es hunderte von Beweisen, in all den Topics/Posts die du gemacht hast. Deine respektlosigkeit gegenüber anderen die nur ihre Meinung vertreten ist echt beschämend.

I told you its hard to explain it in english coz my lack of the english lang, but hey, it isnt a shame for you to translate it.

No, I meant it doesn't change the fact that the way some of the mods and admins treat people is appalling, and has no justification. Originally you denied that anyone except joetorp was doing it, then changed your story to "but it's justified"

Why should I care whether the pointsfix empties Jelly? We're not trying to force it on you.

tellsson wrote on Sun, 04 October 2009 12:46why i should use harsh words against ppls who have their own opinion?

Its called respect/tolerance.

uh, do you even know what we're talking about here?

i'm talking about the people at clanwars who ACTIVELY got in the way of a community's decision whether to use the pointsfix.

the rightful admin and league owner, me, decided i wanted to use the pointsfix. this was SABOTAGED by a few people at clanwars. not disagreed with - SABOTAGED. a systematic campaign of lies, character assassination, manipulation, rigging polls and lying about the results - by a bunch of cheaters, pointpushers and general rule-breakers. what's more, people actually used this sorry scenario as an argument AGAINST THE POINTSFIX!

if you even MARGINALLY side with them over me - and plenty of people have (i haven't seen a word of condemnation against these pricks, nor a single word of support to my position), then you DON'T support a community's right to choose whether to use the pointsfix or not. indeed, you actively oppose it.

we're not talking about "respect and tolerance of opinions" here. we're talking about a bunch of cheaters subverting the wishes of the community's admins. if this happened at jelly you might be a little less quick to "respect and tolerate" it.

i'm often accused (ad nauseum, in fact) of trying to force the pointsfix on communities that don't want it - which is, of course, entirely incorrect and can't be deduced if you actually read anything i say. yet there are plenty of people who actually physically try to force the pointsbug on communities that don't want it. if people are pissed at me because they (wrongly) think i'm forcing the pointsfix onto others, they ought to be twice as outraged about this. of course they aren't, which is why the rage at me seems rather odd, and why when people say "there should be a choice whether to use pointsfix or not" they often don't mean it...

tellsson wrote on Sun, 04 October 2009 12:46I told you its hard to explain it in english coz my lack of the english lang, but hey, it isnt a shame for you to translate it.

since I know almost no german, it seems like you're in a better position to translate it than I am, eh?

FFS this took me 5 sec on google translate...

Quote:

You have to provoke a certain kind of people, you rotate them around the words in your mouth and turn handle so that in the end everything is against her. You attackierst people, insult them and to the mob. You can not just say: they have lost. You say it in a provocative way, like this: you have fatally lost abysmally. This is pure provocation, and endows the people to literally give you answers to tough accordingly. Only afterwards, so you can stand there and tell everyone how unfair can you treat people. There are hundreds of proofs, in all the topics / posts you have made. Your disrespect for others only their opinion represented is real shame.

As you can see it's broken English but it somewhat worked.

nikki wrotel don't understand how Spooky particularly insults people. In fact, he doesn't twist people's words at all; he actually addresses each portion of somebodies argument by quoting their exact words. That's merely picking arguments apart. =/ thank you, it's about time somebody pointed out the blindingly obvious. if someone makes several different points in one post i'll reply to each one. there's a very good tool you can use for doing this, and there's absolutely nothing unfair about doing so. if anything, one could criticise the absolutely huge people who see a post of mine containing several different points being made, and who DOESN'T reply to each one.

kadoosh's translationYou have to provoke a certain kind of people, you rotate them around the words in your mouth and turn handle so that in the end everything is against her.

i'll be generous and assume the meaning has been lost in translation here... that's the kindest thing I can really say about this sentence.

kadoosh's translationYou attackierst people, insult them and to the mob.

again, tellsson might want to take a good look at the jelly forums, and notice the huge number of people - including moderators and admins - who go to extraordinary lengths to attack me when the only thing they're replying to is me talking about, i dunno, the pointsfix or the surrender script etc kadoosh's translationYou can not just say: they have lost. You say it in a provocative way, like this: you have fatally lost abysmally.

i only say this sort of thing when they refuse to concede a point, or when they're caught lying through their teeth about something, or when they completely ignore my points and carry on banging away at an already-discredited position.

kadoosh's translationOnly afterwards, so you can stand there and tell everyone how unfair can you treat people. There are hundreds of proofs, in all the topics / posts you have made. give ten, tellsson. there are hundreds? give ten. quotes and links, please.

no, that's just the KIND OF THING i talk about, in a completely logical and civilised way, before your community go apeshit on me for no reason.

perhaps you'd like to ask the same question about the pointsfix? i certainly hope not, for your own sake.

or how about what happened when i said "actually, no i don't cheat" in response to two of your moderators publicly claiming that i did (two and a quarter if you count joetorp as well). you joined in the lynching that time, if you remember... in response to a post of mine which can hardly be considered offensive.

or how about when i blew the whistle on msgtpain because he was lying to everybody (again) about me... my posts were deleted and i got a ban threat, whereas his ridiculous lies about me were allowed to stand and i wasn't permitted to defend myself.

Spooky wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 03:52 Tildeth wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 00:59 I'm just saying that it's going to affect the number of players in the servers running the fix, hence, my distaste for it. What about that don't you understand? Evidently everything, because every time I try and make you aware of these facts you go off raging about how unethical the entire clanwars league was for jumping out of their tank at the last second LOL.

Once again, you simply don't read my posts... either that or they're too painful for you to confront. I've simply proven you were LYING THROUGH YOUR TEETH when you said you support the idea of each community choosing whether to use the pointsfix or not. That's right. LYING THROUGH YOUR TEETH.

The clanwars situation proved where you really stand about each community's individual choice: you oppose it.

Tildeth wrote on Fri, 02 October 2009 00:59 And don't worry, I made the poll. yes, clearly you know how badly you're losing this argument so you change the subject to something that is totally irrelevant. "YEAH WELL MOST PEOPLE DON'T LIKE THE POINTSFIX!" well even if that's true (and the evidence is against you on this) so what? if we're giving servers the choice, some will use the pointsfix, some won't, and everybody's happy, right? (the one fly in the ointment, of course, is the jelly-games sleeperhold on the game listings, which shits all over your credibility whenever you talk about "most players" and, indeed, "dictators")

first, let's give the pointsfix the unique control over renegade the pointsbug has had for SIX YEARS. then, let's treat anyone advocating the pointsbug with the contempt people like you have shown me, for no reason. then, let's make it so the advocates of the pointsfix use the same appalling tactics the pointsbug supporters have used, thereby shitting all over their own credibility at every turn. Then, the two positions will be equivalent, so then the poll would be fair.

tildeth: "hi, i've come up with an improvement to the points system"
tildeth: "you can get points for shooting stuff you don't damage!"
spoon: "why...?"
tildeth: "DUHH! NO, NOT EVERYTHING! just vehicles."
spoon: "uh, why just vehicles? why not buildings and infantry too if this is the way your mind is working?"
tildeth: "i don't know. by the way, it won't happen all the time. just when the vehicles have green health."
spoon: "....why? why not when they have red/yellow health if this is what you're thinking?"
tildeth: "again, i don't know."
tildeth: "no."
tildeth: "no, quite the opposite actually."
spoon: "is this gonna make people better players?"
tildeth: "hell no, people will waste time shooting tanks ineffectually instead of actually doing something useful like damaging the enemy or repairing their base."
spoon: "does it make the game fairer?"
spoon: "um.... maybe you think it'll be easier for new players?"
tildeth: "no, in fact it makes a simple points system a lot harder to understand."
spoon: "sorry bud, but i'm not seeing how your idea makes any sense AT ALL..."
tildeth: "me neither."
spoon: "so... in what sense is this an 'improvement'?"

tellsson wroteonly coz 1 mod and an old reg treated you doesnt mean that the whole jelly staff act like this. you did see that clearly as the mod got demoded.
i guess you don't read that many posts on the jelly forum, huh? i wasn't talking about joetorp. i get treated with more contempt than most cheaters, despite the fact i've done absolutely nothing wrong, and in fact have gone to great lengths to stick up for the interests of people who don't like the pointsfix, no matter how appallingly they treat me.

and i'm not talking about just a couple of people. i'm talking about the MAJORITY of the moderators and the MAJORITY of the admins.

OK, so I just found this thread (I haven't been dodging, I just don't sit on the renforums all day like you).

Firstly, I "condemn the despicable actions of people like simpee, clearshot, mikey etc", happy?

I've already stated multiple times that I don't give a shit about whether or not pointfix is implemented on the other servers, I was simply stating the consequences. Why? Let's move on and find out.

Referring to your so called "hypothetical", the fact of the matter is that Renegade was DESIGNED flawed and people have gotten used to that flaw. You can't make an idiotic statement like "WHAT IF IT WASNT FLAWED, AND NOW YOU WANTED TO IMPLEMENT THAT FLAW, HOW STOOOOPID WOULD U LOOK??!". Why? I'm confident you can find it in you to find out that answer.

So no game should ever be patched ever, since any flaw that happens to slip by the designers is already into the game and people have gotten used to it anyway?

Where are you getting these statements from? Or are they just your false assumptions of what you think I'm saying. Yes, that was a rhetorical question, in case you weren't clear.

I already AGREED with the patch being implemented, I don't know why you're trying to imply that I didn't.

See, you say that, and then you say you're against pointfix because it was designed that way, even though it's an obvious bug. Which of the two is it?

I said that I'm anti-pointfix because it's just the type of gameplay I PREFER, because I'm used to it.

I say that I agree with the pointfix because I honestly don't care if I have to play with it, but I'm just pointing out that a lot of people will.

Must I clarify further, or has it finally set in yet?

Edit: What I disagreed with (if you have actually been following, you would have picked this up) was the penalty of -50% ladder for those servers not running the fix. Regardless of the wishes of the pointbug players, it seems that this has been set in stone. I've come to terms with that now, as it seems there is clearly nothing we can do about it; however, this leaves me with a question regarding the most recent proposal from the Spoonman: Why is there a need for further compromise (ie. Giving up power and control of servers on the list), if we already compromised by agreeing to the loss of ladder?

lol, no need to exaggerate buddy. you JUST BARELY won and then you said i was one of the best tanks you'd ever played, and what's more, if I hadn't lagged out of your AGT you wouldn't have won at all.

Tildeth wrote Why is there a need for further compromise (ie. Giving up power and control of servers on the list), if we already compromised by agreeing to the loss of ladder?

The situations aren't equivalent. You "agreeing to the loss of ladder" in pointbug servers is not a compromise, because TT doesn't have a monopoly on ladders. We're just the only people who can be bothered making one, just like I was with the clan ladder.
