The renegade forums user known under the nickname "kill" has been banned for a period of 6 months for releasing a file that we have multiple times specified as being considered as a cheat. This means until the 18th of April 2010.

Each time he tries to bypass this ban, we will add an extra period of one month to his ban period.

I'm setting this as an example. We warned multiple times that we will not accept this release. If anyone else would like to do the same, they'll get a permanent ban as this warning should be very clear to everyone.

I also want to express my disappointment towards jnz who made this possible. It's not because you found a girlfriend and stopped caring about Renegade that you should spread source code without thinking. It shows a lack of respect towards a lot of people in this community.

Actually, anyone capable of changing my code to cheat with is easily capable of changing shaders.dll to show the hud. The code code that I have written is not -any- diffrent to the code that is already in shaders.dll.

So why not let them have their fun while they still can?

These building bar things aren't anything compared to simple brightly colored C4 skins.. and even with those, people suck.

So why not let other people uses these building bars and make the game more interesting for the rest of us? (I mean, if the rest of you can't handle a slight challenge in a video game with no official rankings, then I understand..)

Ditto. I don't use any skins, scripts, hacks or cheats whatsoever. There's no honour or satisfaction in winning just because you have an unfair advantage over everyone else.
