Can you control the "VTOL"s by using the mouse instead of the keyboard?

Change jump and crouch over to the mouse? But then you would need to find good buttons for primary and secondary fire...

Or if you had a mouse with extra buttons you could set it up that way.

um no. There are ALOT of functions in the .exe that are not present in the final build. He just used resource hacker to add them (probably not working)

That screenshot is probably from the unpatched version of ren, it used to have it but they removed it, along with a skin brower, from the game with one of the patches.

I didnt photoshop it, i swear.

Edit: Ok here is the secret, its the demo version of Renegade. They have some old stuff in the menus. And that function is working 100%. I havent tried it with the current ren.

Interesting. This is probably legit, as all the strings are still in Renegade for selecting the two control types. I wonder why Westwood took mouse steering out.

Would be nice if you added the skin browser too. I found it rather helpful at some points.
