LOL, so now if anything is your style, you should be credited?
Please define what your style is. You're Russian for Gods sake, stop acting like such a Capitalist pig. I can't believe you can't even be a Commy without failing.

If your going to put an overhead radar onto the original HUD, don't use shitty graphics for it.

It's bad. The radar is off-center, and most of the other graphics have just been ripped right out of the default HUD.

You can add one line of code to shaderhud.cpp to make custom HUDs made by HUD.ini work properly with hud toggling commands.

if(!(*bool *)0x8124b4)) return; //return if IsHudShown == false
```

You can just add this at the top of the UpdateHUD2() function.
What this does is check if the value at 0x8124b4(the address of IsHudShown) is 0, if it is 0 then it just exits the function. ^^
