Now my keyboard is acting up it is after a few hours going all caps and becoming a pain in the ass to type sometimes i have to hit a key multiple times to work then it eventually stops working completely i then have to remove the USB connection to the computer and then re connect it... amazing how great technology is...

oh and when the keyboard finally stops working webpages wont open in the same window...

that wouldnt surprise me...

is it also possible the amount of children spilling shit in the keyboard and on the mouse could be the entire problem aside from the sucky ass internet?
