I'd say the download and upload speeds are fine but the ping sucks, is that the closest server you can test with?

I pay $55 for 10mb down and 1 mb up. I think the ping is high because the company uses technology called wimax. I live 5 miles from the tower. But comcast is by far the best. XD This is my schools. <<

Ah, the fact you are using Wimax explains the high ping.

Closest:

To Australia:

England:

too lazy to do the rest, but yeah, I'm pretty sure there's way better internets you can get.

Actually it is really kind of pointless to spend all of your money on such a high down rate. Because most servers are not equipped to handle such a high client rate. So your 28.99 down is pretty much the same ingame as someone playing with a 10 or an 8 download speed. That high down speed only really works well with downloading torrents and stuff. >.<

Also I forgot my down rate is uncapped not capped, but the up is capped at 1mb.

Yeah, anything past 8 or 10 or so will hardly be used... even that's a stretch IMO.

$62 per month. I often get my maximum speed on downloads, uploads, and works very well for online gaming. The service is a good value to me for the money I pay.

For gaming ping counts. With wimax u'll defo get a bad gaming experience. For the rest, it's a nice connection.
