Ok, so i bought it, just cause i want all games in the C&C franchise, guess what, one hour and your done with the most crappy story ever made in the entire franchise

GODDAMN EA

So what do you think

Those images are lame.

That being said, there's another C&C4 topic...

yes, with that said, i think EA messed up the franchise after YR (That was Westwoods last rts project, if i remember correct) for me Renegade is something else then C&C, its special, beeing the only FPS of a RTS series, but technicaly, its the franchise yes, so sry for that. fine?

The DRM on this game is even worse than RA3! :/

I'm not sure what's worse. The game, or the angry people making lame image macros out of it?

The latter.

The game atleast seems somewhat interesting.

X-Play gave it a 4/5, but that just goes to show that they can't be trusted. >:[

Something with mixed reviews is usually bad in one way or another. I have a feeling that the "Command & Conquer" name gave it a few brownie points on some sites.

But Gamespy gave it a 2.5/5, IGN a C-, and on GameRankings and Metacritic the rating is in the mid 60s.

...and yet C&C3 gets higher ratings

I'd prefer this shit over C&C3 any day...

I don't know, I think I'd rather have base building, resource gathering and a so-so storyline than the piece of crap C&C4 offered.

amen

Even tho the drm is awful. I'm still going to complete the game, so i know what happens, lol.

It's ok tho, I play ra2 right after I play cnc 4 so I don't stay infected with the crap EA made.

The always connected system (aka DRM obviously...) doesn't even stay connected, you are constantly disconnected making you lose your progress if you are playing the single player campaign.

Just to play this game properly you have to crack it, ironic isn't it?

C&C fans really shouldn't have pick their favorites based on which one sucks the least. That sadness should only be reserved for people who love Sonic.

I was reading Destructoid's review of the game (30% rating) and was amazed that you have to 'level up' in order to unlock units and perks...

In an RTS? Seriously?

That means you're screwed down the line in later missions because you likely won't have the needed units to counter the enemies new toys. What idiocy.

Someone just threw a few sprinkles on the garbage which makes it "better".

Just to get the facts straight, you can counter units unlocked at a high level with low level stuff. (Titans (which are effectively low level laser tanks) vs Leviathans (high level capital ships)) The game is actually very sound balance wise, what people have gripes about are the leveling system (being more of a hindrance rather than serving any purpose), gameplay and story.

This sums up my thoughts and feelings of C&C4.

I played 4 missions before uninstalling the game and just watching the FMVs on youtube... even then i was disappointed.

Incorrect this forum is for C&C Renegade, not the C&C franchise. You want that you will have to go over to the strike team forums or the EA forums.

The modern RTS tries to be all things to all people. This is why SC2 will be such a success amongst RTS players and such a failure amongst WoW players, who will think "WHAT IS THIS I DON'T EVEN..."

I've been wondering if SC2 will have the same online play as SC. I mean Use Map Settings, player created maps. Not melee 1v1 2v2 3v3 etc.. maps for ladder whores.
