Agreed. It makes you look like a massive fucking tool.

It's a stupid fashion thing perpetuated by women. And guy who are faggots with no sense of confidence in their own opinions wear them to fit in (which, ironically, they can't fit into the jeans themselves 90% of the time).

I mean, baggy as shit jeans are usually pretty bad too, but I'd rather baggy clothes than skin-tight clothing.

I wear semi-baggy, mostly because I'm a skinny as hell guy, so it's hard to find decently fitting pants.

Seriously, do people who wear skinny jeans just have no balls...?

My favorites are the ones that cant go up over your ass all the way because they are already cutting circulation off to your balls... /sarcasm

I want to run up and kick dudes in the nuts who were skinny pants, just to see if they even feel it.

+1

Seriously, both extremes are fucking retarded. Jeans should be comfortable, but they need to cover everything.

Know what pisses me off?

People who describe meat as "fall off the bone" and people who describe something hot as piping. "It's piping hot!"

I'll give you 'piping hot' but how is one supposed to describe meat that's so tender that it falls off the bone without saying "fall off the bone?"

Context.

"That meat was fall off the bone!" sounds utterly retarded.

Oh, I've never heard it used that way. In that case, the user deserves a prompt smack.

Wtf are you talking about? Jeans are jeans. All jeans are skinny. There is no such thing as a pair of jeans that AREN'T tight.

That's why I don't wear them.

I'd look ridiculous in skinny jeans, I'm Six foot Seven and over-weight. However, that isn't to say that anyone wouldn't look ridiculous in them, only slightly less.

He's europeanly overweight. Meaning he's over weight like your dad, a few kilo's too much but nothing really serious.
