Been a while since I stopped by the old stomping grounds?

Hope everyone is doing fine, and still having fun!

Glad to see everyones doing good

Sorry, no more SC2 keys

And, been working my butt off @ Blizzard for the last year, working mostly on internal tools for... just about everything.

The lack of SC2 keys is fine, I have one.

Glad to see you're doing well.

The lack of DRNG's having SC2 keys is a problem.

In California, less than 6 figures is below the poverty line.

I guess that's the price we pay for not living someplace inhospitable, like Arizona.

Also, Hi Dante.

Forget beta keys, how about hooking me up with some hardware so I can actually play the thing when it comes out?

Inhospitable? No natural disasters and no snow for the trade-off of a few months of heat.

115ish degree weather for half the year is a bit more than "a few months of heat". Last time I was in Arizona it was just to Havasu, and a stray coke can rolling around in the truck of my car actually exploded from the heat. Man was not meant to live in such places.

I mean, realistically, what you're telling me is that it's better to be here Arizona than here:

California

And really, all the people that live here can't be wrong.

Does that make China the best place to live, since all the people that live there can't be wrong?

People don't move to China. They're just kind of born and stuck there. Not so with California.

Hey Dante,

It's a shame renevo never worked out, would of been awesome to see what you guys could of put out there...

It's nice to see you, boky and other renegader's get into the gaming industry. I'd love to do a job I enjoyed and had a passion for, you guys are pretty much living my dream.

I see America on the television and it's always shorts, sun-glasses, loud shirts with awesome homes (even for the average Joe). I'd so love that for my life, I am extremely envious.

Congrats to you man!
