I have the first decade and the install disk but unfortunately I do not have the manual with the serial number inside of it.

Now this is a long shot as no one knows me or my reputation but, im not interested in using the key for online use only to play the C&C series again as my theatre of war one does not work on the new operating systems.

If anyone would be kind enough to perhaps loan a spare cd-key that they have for the first decade, it would be greatly appreciated.

If this is not possible then perhaps someone could inform me on how to acquire a new cd-key without buying the game again.

Again thank you in advance for any help/advice you may or can give me.

You could just buy another copy of TFD... it's only like $20 now.

Yep no idea how to use a keygen, but I shall ask around.

EDIT: Got it all sorted I can play C&C:TD, YAY! Thank you for your help everyone.
