Anyone went to see it? I'm a big fan of the A team, got the 4 first season's DVD's at home but never bothered with season 5 which was a huge disappointment .

I'm going to watch the movie in the cinema somewhere next week . I'm quite excited about it: I'm hoping for a lot of no brain action bringing back a lot of youth sentiment!

Me and my partner have a largeish list of movies to see in the cinema, this is one of them, so i hope it's worthwhile.

I never did watch the shows, or have been interesting, but my partner is interested. ^^

If they throw in a goddamn retarded love story or any stupid side bullshit, I will instantly hate it. I'm hoping it's just awesome, with alot of mindless, over the top action and badassery. Which is how it SHOULD be.

The reviews I read definitely go in that direction!

Friends of mine went and saw it. Apparently it's funny; but that type of movie just isn't my thing.

OK, so I went to the theater yesterday and it truly lived up to my expectations. However, I was surprised by the lack of audience. We were in one of the smaller cinema rooms and it wasn't even half full. I guess it's not the big success one thought it could be?

Could be because that half of them weren't expecting the A-Team 2010, but their lost.

Srs Gozy?

I went to see the A-team with a few mates the other day. The cinema was packed

I guess England prefer's old-time classics xD

The A-team FTW!

I want to go see this movie on Tuesday. I never saw the old TV show, but the trailer looked pretty epic.

It's funny, even though I never saw the TV show, when I was watching the trailer I felt nostalgic for some reason.

Well, you do see Mr.T everywhere, so you feel connected.

I didn't get to see the movie yesterday, but I went to it today.

I couldn't find the movie playing at many of the theaters near me except one. It was completely awesome too. The theater was really high quality; stadium seating, extremely comfortable cushioned seats, retractable arm rests with cup holders... it had everything.

And the best part was, I had the entire theater to myself. There was absolutely no one else in the theater with me besides the occasional employee.

I thought the movie was awesome. A lot of action. Highly entertaining.

You guys live in the middle of nowhere or something??? xD

It was packed when i went
(or probably everyone else saw it already)

I live in one of the most densely populated areas in North America (not to mention one of the smallest).

Judging by how it wasn't being shown in many other theaters closer to where I live, I'm going to say that the reason why the theater was so empty was because everyone already saw it.
