Hi,

I am trying to delete my account on Renegade. I have tried to un-install the whole game, but when I re-install the nickname and information is still there!

Please could someone tell me how to get rid of all the information.

Thanks guys.

The account is stored online, not on your computer. The information is there because you told Renegade to remember your login information. You can simply type in a new nickname and password to start using those instead of your old one, no need to actually delete the nickname unless you have reached your limit on your serial key (IIRC you get 9 nicknames per serial).

I am curious if you're actually banned from somewhere, and are thinking that this might somehow help you get back in the server or something..?

Or perhaps you just want a new nickname?

When you are logging into the Advanced Game Listings screen, just hit "Delete Account" when it prompts you for your username/password. This doesn't actually delete your nickname off WOL, but its a shortcut to removing your account from your computer (locally, or you can do it manually with regedt).
