I have to create a 6 page CSS motel for my final project for my web design CSS class, I decided to choose a C&C renegade theme, im asking you guys if you can post or send me a message with as many renegade

-clear SS's

-logos

-buttons?

-icons?

-pics/wallpaper?

basically anything ren related that can be used for a web page.

please and thank you

* I do plan on extraxcting stuff out of the mix files and convert them to jpg*

This title is very misleading...I thought you were opening one up and just wanted someone to come stay the night, and finally teach you how to use google.

The thing is, from what I can tell, SSnipe is a sociable person. I don't think he's too stupid to use a search engine, he's just friendly and enjoys the interaction with others...

When someone in real life asks you a question, you don't tell'em to just fucking google it. Perhaps there is another reason why they're asking you? They respect your opinion? They want to get to know you better? They want to integrate themselves?

Of course, in real life they generally don't type their question into a computer which could have provided them the answer in less time than it took to type the question by just entering a few relevant words into the search box and hitting enter.

Or they want an opinion written by a person as a personal communication, rather than written for an article / public consumption?

Thank you... guys, reason I post is because most of you guys here have some kind of C&C webpage at one point or another and perhaps you could tell me what was easier or how more resources to us for it. I cant just google "renegade vs cnc 3 webpage" and as for the pics, I have gotten lot of pics of cnc3 and ren off google but players always have more better ones that you cant just find anywhere

This seems to be a fairly common theme on Renforums.
