You need two people as engineers and any tank. First one of you buys a tank then u get in and quickly get out. Now you damage it so it is at a sliver of health. Then one of u gets in and the other repairs it and gets money. Now of the tank get out reload and repeat the steps. I hope you like this tactic. Five stars would be nice

I love the sniper, mnot the 1000, but the 500, he's cheap, leaves no trail like the blue line, and with a headshot nobody survives. And if you do make a headshot, most people wil stand around looking for the sniper, when they see their health bar is getting near 0 Their is no save place to snipe from, so move to a spot, shoot someone and move to another

I gave you 4 stars because you need someone else to do it, and you have to waste time to do it.

Instead of that, I would suggest you actually -use- the tank - in a rush, or to attack a building in conjunction with other vehicles to siege the opposing team (common practice for GDI on Under and Field). The driver attacks the building while the second engineer repairs. Better productivity for the team, and both players earn money. [June 19, 2002, 12:07: Message edited by: -HDC-Hibiki]

Then you could use a portion of the money to get a new tank. For GDI the best tanks to earn money with are the MRL and the mammoth. The Nod's are Flame Tank and the Stealth Tank (get kills without the enemy knowing that you killed him.)

Plant 251 beacons on the various buildings. That way, there are so many, they can't ALL be disarmed. Pretty soon, all the buildings are gone and you have a TON of cash! Of course, if you want to keep playing so you can spend it all, then leave one building untouched....

47214721, actually there are a few "perfect" sniping spots. I won't tell you any, but there are some spots where no one can see you unless you have a ramjet rifle. Most of those places you can see into a building and snipe ppl at the PTs, and since most ppl don't use the hotkeys when they are inside the PT, they take longer.For the characters, though, I use deadeye, and if there are spawn sniper rifles, I use SBH.

Firing a harvester with that tank of yours makes more money than the tank repair idea.1 shot at the harvy(enemy) will make money a ten times faster...

You dont get points for repairing damage caused by your own team.

o you do get pts for repairing tanks tht u damaged while u weren't in it and when u get in it someone repairs u...but u don't get many pts for repairing tanks...for repairing a med tank w/ a hottie...u only get like 1 pts per 4-5 seconds...tht is cheap too...i noe some of the perfect sniping spots...but i never use deadeye or blackhandsniper cause they r weak if u hit the chest or something...i prefer havoc/sakura more...but i like close combat so it doesn't matter

As far as I know you get 1 point for 100hp, not really worth it. If you want money go kill an enemy building or something.
