Hey guys listen to this one.
<http://soundcloud.com/sound-officials/sound-officials-curry-siren-demo-working-on-it>

Still working on it, it needs more percussion but the main idea is pretty much done.

i'm with Glock on this one you've done better for the listener this one incites rage and a bitter hatred towards the creator

I think it's much better than his older work.

Right now you are on that fine line between a track that is not good, and a track that is decent enough, with potential. It's most certainly not terrible, but the high pitch tone most certainly does not go well with the beat. Just keep moving forward, learning and eventually over time you will improve enough to start pumping out good tracks.

In addition to this, I must say, don't make a new topic with every new update, please!

Yeah. I will delete any new music topics you create, renalpha, stick to one topic please (this one, preferably). I'll forgive bumping (as it's genuinely relevant new content).

Context indeed. I bet the community would enjoy a Nikki bump a lot more than one dedicated to Renalpha's shitty music.

That's pretty... I'm not even going to finish that, just like i didn't even get throug the song before my ears started pouring out blood.

It needs plenty of work. It sounds like it was done in Reason using only a few of the standard plugins repeated. There's no variation, no separation of the song...

My bumps are cheeky and fun. Renalpha's bumps would be cruel and tragic.

if nikki doesn't bump those topics they just lie in the dusty renforums basement for all eternity
it's like bringing out old toys and playing with them or something to the same extent but less homo

Thanks, people might be bashing on these tracks because they dont like house music. I still need to add percussion etc.

Of course! people criticizing you could never do so on the grounds that your tracks are shit!
