Needs more maps

I'll be popping up some time to check this out and play some custom maps

But they must be inside the UberMapPack.

Do you happen to have a local server for us USA players?

This one is hosted and paid by zunnie, so I guess for now you'll have to deal with this one until someone else decides to put one online in the US. (do we even need another server? I'd like to see one frequently used server rather than two barely visited ones)

If you want a frequently used server, then have n00bstories or jelly run it for a weekend.

Thats one of the things 4.0 will fix, no more listing by nickname but playercounts...

It's not only the nickname, they obviously have a loyal playerbase after all these years.

That too, but obviously random players join the servers they see first, which has been a fuckup for the last decade with the a000x shit.

And I could think of better options, but to give away beta stuff.

With all the empty servers and about 10 servers having players the server will be listed on the first page in the middle even when theres just 2 players ingame.

i am glad to see the TT server in RR but if you spect more players i sugest that leave only the originals ren maps in the rotation cause you havent release TT yet and ppl is unable to download them.

i try et, but i cant for this litle issue.

No, because those few testers that do have 4.0 will need to test the downloader properly.

That, and the ubermappack has nearly 25000 downloads, so many people must have it...

They just too lazy to join custom map servers because there are few players in them.

We hope to change this behaviour by continueing to run the new maps no matter what.

Why would there be? BlackIntel is on a 64bit OS since April 2007, running nicely, and the only unexpected downtime we had was due to disk failure.

No, it's the new FDS and a new SSGM rewritten from scratch being developed by the TT team. It has a lot of bug fixes and it needs to be tested for bugs and stability.

so ob walk and c4 glitching should not be possible...

on another note... didn't notice wall lag once in the entire time I was in the server
