Err..u guys misunderstood. Of course I meant with the scope, but still you can use arrows to aim better.

Well, Im pointing out the obvious here, but many newbie snipers havent noticed this. So, when the enemy is far away, use your mouse to get your aim close to the enemy(head) and then use the ARROW keys when you are close enough to aim more accurately. This is obvious, yes, but I saw my friend trying to snipe someone who was far away by using the mouse only, he spent all his ammo and still couldn't hit him.

I also have no trouble aiming with my scroll mouse. I think it's easier because you don't have to move your finger incase the target moves.
