On mesa the PP and the Hand are very close to the tunnel and in every game the GDI will rush Air Strip or PP and Hand. If not careful with defence it will be gone in no time at all. There are two ways to stop GDI rushing.1. Try to occupy the tunnel with Art and Light tank and force GDI on to defence. There is some nasty spot that can attack the War Factory and you can hit all the new build tanks and is possible to kill it before any one can get into it. The art and Light tanks need to have Tech supporting them. Engineer is not enough.2. This is when Nod is on the defence. GDI will come from the the air strip and the tunnel and keep bombarding all the building that they can see. It is extremely hard to clear the tunnel and occupy it. Need to have 2 Light tank on the side of the tunnel exit with the turret able to fire into the tunnel and tech support. When ever an APC or Med tanks are trying to push through ram right into them and let the Obe kill them. Your only purpose is to slow them down before they can turn the corner just outside of the exit or even getting close to the building entrance. The air strip will need art, light and stealth tank to defend. Light and art do the long range attack and use stealth to block the entrance of the air strip.

That's your tactic...and it may be a useful one to you at that time..not all feel or act like you might like them to..This game is all run-n-gun FT/APC Stealth Rushes....nothing more..IMO and I am migrating to other games..AA is a good place to play if anyone wants to try a real game..
